Princeton Joins Nation in Muted Relief over Vietnam War's End

Last Saturday at 7 p.m. the bells pealed out peace at St. Paul's, the Methodist Church, Trinity, Westminster Choir College, the Seminary and Nassau Hall.

Vietnam is over. At least, the documents have been initialed, although the tenuous nature of the cease-fire apparently being violated on both sides makes the average citizen feel like keeping his fingers crossed.

What did Vietnam mean to Princeton?

First of all, it's been a long, long war. The community's first young Vietnam victim died almost seven and one-half years ago in September, 1965. The last casualty for the area was reported exactly two years ago in February, 1971.

A total of eight young men lost their lives, Princeton families have no kin who are prisoners of war.

Because it is a university community, Princeton felt the war in unique ways. Undergraduates paraded and demonstrated and so did the town's young. If the University's faculty did not always initiate anti-war petitions, it was usually strongly behind them. It's a town of articulate people.

1961. A chronology might begin over eight years ago with the Johnson-Goldwater Presidential campaign in 1964, when many Republicans in town formed a committee to support President Lyndon B. Johnson, out of alarm at Senator

Barry Goldwater's sabre-rattling speeches.

But a "Vote Goldwater!" advertisement urged Princetonians to oust the "old team" that had brought war in Vietnam.

1965. Early in 1965, after President Johnson had ordered, in February, the first air raid in what was to become Operation Thunder—a three-year, round-the-clock bombing campaign, TOWN TOPICS

Question - of - the - Week reporter asked whether Princeton residents would like a negotiated cease-fire? The answer was "no," by a 7-6 tally.

When this newspaper ran a Fellowship of Reconciliation ad, declaring its sponsors refusal to cooperate with the government in the war, letters to "Mailbox" denounced TOWN TOPICS for accepting the ad and accused the paper of "following the Moscow-Peking line."

"War is with us again," signed a long TOWN TOPICS story in July, 1965. It was the first of many stories to come, about Princeton men at war.

During these years, Princeton was still absorbed in the civil rights struggle in the south, with Selma, Alabama, and racial injustice. For Princeton's churches, this was the war. But one voice asked from the pulpit, "Has every U.S. citizen searched his conscience? Is it more patriotic in the long run to question the war and to protest . . . ?"

1966. In 1966, the pace quickened. President Johnson himself came to town that May, for dedication of the new Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. Churches sponsored a Vietnam Forum, moderated by Arthur Link, editor of the papers of Woodrow Wilson.

"Should we bomb Hanoi and Halphong?" asked TOWN TOPICS' reporter in July. Most people said yes - if it would shorten the war. In October, he was back again should the bombing be stopped? Mostly, the people said no, it shouldn't be. A busload of 50 people went to Washington, on a protest.

Late in 1966, a Borough Councilman, Enoch Drizin, returned from Vietnam and full of enthusiasm, referred to the conflict as "a holy war." As might be expected, he drew many letters to the editor "exploring" his stand.

In December, the Rev. Robert Spears, then rector of Trinity, stated that "Christians should be foremost, as peace makers when men's hysteria creates an atmosphere in which criticism is made to sound like treason."

With the war in full cry, causing for the serviceman became a deep Princeton concern. Lucy Caldwell, who was to spend over two years at the China Beach USO in Vietnam, appeared in a TOWN TOPICS interview. (Later, in March, 1968, she was honored by the Marines with a special award for her service to battle weary Marines at the USO.)

Ditty bags from the Red Cross . . . "Send Christmas Greetings to Vietnam!" Old jig-saw puzzles to Mrs. Minot C. Morgan Jr. to send to Vietnam soldiers.

1967. Early in 1967, Captain Jerry D. Cauley sent an appeal to his wife, living with her parents in Princeton, asking for aid for 38 Vietnamese orphans.

Princeton's professionals turned their expertise to the war: Herbert Abelson reported an Opinion Research poll in which South Vietnamese were asked what they thought about the war: 63% would rather see negotiation with the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, than continuation of the war.

A writer in this newspaper said that "a small group" of

At Veterans' Day ceremonies in November, 1969, Princeton honored the memory of 1st Lt. Richard D. B. Shepherd, one of eight Princeton area men killed in Vietnam. Here at the Princeton War Memorial is his mother, Mrs. Anne B. Shepherd. With her are Princeton's two 1969 mayors, John D. Wallace (far right) of the Township and Henry S. Patterson of the Borough. From left, are the Rev. Dr. William Tucker, chaplain of Princeton Post 76, American Legion; the Rev. Clifford M. Shaub and Post Commander Frank A. Tyus.

Princeton professors were trying to convince the Administration of "the error of our ways in Vietnam," and concluded by asking, "Does it occur to this group that we have listened, we have considered and we have rejected their opinions?"

A Spring Mobilization to End the War took about 100 Princeton residents to New York by bus. A comparable meeting, here in Whig Hall on campus, brought Richard Falk to the speaker's platform. Dr. Falk, through the war years, was the most eloquent and persistent of the University's war foes.

Early in 1967, weekly Peace Vigils began in Palmer Square: people standing, silently. An Armed Forces Day exhibit in the Shopping Center brought a small group of peace pickets, one of whom charged "police harassment," in a letter to TOWN TOPICS.

And the indefatigable Question reporter asked, in July, "Is total victory possible?" Nine people said "yes," three "no."

"Negotiation Now", a full-page advertisement in TOWN TOPICS, was signed by 100 well-known Princeton residents, including the Borough mayor, the University's president and the wife of the former governor.

1968, "Action Replaces Apathy on Princeton Campus," read a headline in the spring of 1968. SDS members had staged a spring protest. SDS? That's right - Students for a Democratic Society. Hard to remember, now.

But the previous October, in 1967, SDS members had held a sit-down in front of the Institute for Defense Analyses building - then on the University campus. The May protest, also against IDA, has been credited with IDA's decision to break from a not-unwilling University and be come a separate, private corporation, TOWN TOPICS reported: "SDS Pressure Tactics Pay Off."

That same month, a record number of Americans was killed in Vietnam — 562.

In the Presidential elections of that fall, a group of Princetonians joined others in the country to register "Positive Dissent", by voting for Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, but telling him at the same time, "You weren't my candidate — remember me."

(It is classic practice, in Princeton as elsewhere, to line up well-known community names and pay for a full page ad.)

Memorial Day, 1969, a group of Princeton High School students followed the traditional parade, mourning war dead. They had a police permit and they followed a strict distance behind the regular line of march.

1969 Autumn was the active season in 1969, with the first Muralium Day, October 15. Municipal bodies, for the first time, moved actively into the battle. Borough Council unanimously passed an end-the-war resolution. But Township Committee members engaged in an impassioned argument, which one reporter said was the most heated discussion on a national issue ever debated by the governing body. It ended when one Committee member urged all Princeton residents to express themselves personally on Muralium Day to their Congressmen.

In a sharp change of heart, Committee the next week unanimously passed a resolution asking Congress and President to end the war.

About 2,500 people went to the University's Jadwin Gym for an anti-war rally and in November of 1969, five busloads of Princeton residents rode to Washington for a "March Against Death" demonstration.

1970. The peak year for Princeton involvement was 1970, when Laos and Cambodia were invaded in May. Although the campus here did not experience the tragic violence of Kent State, there was a six-day demonstration at the Institute for Defense Analysis, a fire at ROTC headquarters, a strike at the high school, and the decision, in June, to end ROTC on campus. (It came back in the fall of 1972).

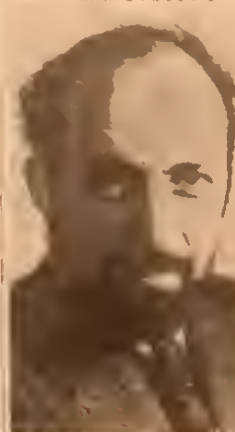

After President Nixon's speech announcing the Cambodian invasion, 2,300 University people gathered at the Chapel in a spontaneous meeting. Later, that week, over 5,000 attended a four-hour session in Jadwin Gym.

For most Princeton families that week, the high school strike was the memorable local event. "Students have made it very clear that this is not a strike against the high school, or a strike to close down the school," announced the acting principal. "It is a strike to express their deep concern about the national crisis."

It was a three-day-plus strike, with students arranging rallies, workshops on the war, presenting complex resolutions complete with alternatives and parliamentary debate. Many parents protested the strike, largely on the grounds that it kept students from regular classes.

On the first page of TOWN TOPICS, a headline read "A World in Turmoil Reflected Here," listing a Service of Agony and Intercession at Borough Hall by local pastors, a censure of trustees by Princeton Seminary students, formation of the Movement for a New Congress, "a different kind of student activism that can involve the whole town and nation," and a curious little campaign called "Stop the World for Peace" everybody stop everything he's doing for one whole day.

That Cambodia week, governing bodies again debated with heat, the U.S. role in south

Six Candidates to Seek Three Seats in Tuesday's School Election

Polls will be open earlier this year for the school elections: from 4 p.m. next Tuesday, February 6, until 9 that night. In previous years, voters have had only four hours for voting instead of five.

Besides passing on the budget, voters will choose three new members for the Princeton Regional School Board.

Borough: Two seats are available this year for the Borough. Contestants, in order of their ballot appearance, are 1. Andrew Shelpuk, Hawley C. Waterman Jr., Joan Doig and Judith Getis.

Township: One seat is open this year in the Township. The two contestants, in order of their listing on the ballot, are Fred Bauer and Gail Pietrinferno.

In a statement this week, the 22-member Black Caucus formally endorsed Joan Doig, Judith Getis and Fred Bauer. "We need school board representatives who possess sensitivity, integrity, persistence and faith in our young people," the statement said.

Black Caucus members urged "a vigorous, flexible and effective educational system (with) good teachers, administrators, and concerned, involved parents attending to the interests of our children... people able to work for equality, quality education and to understand the difference between

'same' and equal."

Labels Avoided. It has been a campaign without formal endorsements, except for the Caucus, and individual statements. (see "Mailbox") Parents of Princeton School Children, generally traditional anti- and the Committee for Princeton Schools, generally liberal-pro, have not spoken out as organizations, perhaps feeling that in a community increasingly skittish about labels, a candidate does better if he/she looks independent.

However, individuals strongly identified with both these groups have been campaigning hard. Mr. Waterman, Dr. Shelpuk and Mrs. Pietrinferno, joining across the Borough-Township line, are advertising as a team, and are supported by individuals in the "Parents" group.

Mrs. Doig and Mrs. Getis are campaigning together in the Borough, but Mr. Bauer has not joined them in advertisements and is going it alone with his own Township team. The "Committee" group disbanded formally early last year.

Not much has been said, either in or out of print, about Superintendent Philip E. McPherson, frequently identified by the adjective "controversial." At last Wednesday's Candidates Night, issues like evaluation, discipline, diversity of programs for different kinds of students, cost and its possible relevance to excellence occupied the audience of about 125, and the six candidates.

Where to Vote

School board elections and the vote on the school budget will be held next Tuesday, February 6. Polls will be open from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. Here are the polling places, defined by the General Election Districts used in November elections:

4, 5 - John Witherspoon School.

From PHS. High school students asked the candidates their "top priorities" for improving the high school:

Bauer: Provide more courses for both non-college and college kids... enforce rules equally, discipline offenders... improve human relations, learn to respect others' rights.

Doig: Renovate the building; non-flexible rooms interfere with learning and may make racial tensions... adopt a 'house' system... increase number of black staff, keep black-white dialogue going.

Getis: Support Human Relations Council... consider 'house' system and ombudsman... improve remedial work and vocational education... improving teacher hiring and evaluation, with student help in evaluation...

Pietrinferno: Evaluate curriculum so students are motivated... respect staff, other students... student accountability for Open Campus time... teacher-parent development program.

Shelpuk: Improve communication between administration, faculty, community... decide what to do with PHS building... develop closer student-faculty relations, perhaps with some self-governance.

Waterman: Emphasize discipline, respect with equal treatment for all... assign disruptive students to a special facility in lieu of suspension... evaluate all programs... have regular remedial classes for poor readers.

FOR THE PLANNERS

At February Meeting The Princeton Nursery School, now on Leigh Avenue, will ask site-plan approval next Tuesday for its proposed new school adjoining Community Park off Route 206. The school is on the agenda of the Princeton Regional Planning Board for its February meeting, 8 p.m., in Borough Hall.

The board will also hear developers of a 44-lot, 94-acre cluster on Stuart Road protest the Planning Board's requests for public walking easements in the wooded acreage.

Site-plan approval will be sought by four business and professional firms: Unisex Hairdressers, Nassau and Charlton; Holt, Morgan and Schwartz, architects, for new offices on the second floor of 4 Mercer Street; two doctors who want to build in the professional area on North Harrison Street; and Stewardson and Dougherty, the real estate firm, 366 Nassau with alterations.

BASEMENT FIRE TUESDAY
At 194 Nassau Street, a pair of fortuitous circumstances Monday night prevented a fire in the basement of the Hilton building, 194 Nassau Street, from causing extensive damage.

The first occurred when heat from the fire set off an alarm in police headquarters, signaling some kind of trouble. Sgt. John Bellow and Ptl. Victor Fasanella responded to what they thought was a burglar alarm. Noticing smoke, they immediately radioed for a general alarm (11:03 p.m.).

The second break took place when heat caused a water pipe to rupture further helping to contain the fire. "We were lucky," agreed Robert Mooney, Borough administrator and volunteer fireman who was on the scene.

The fire burned out a small utility room in the basement and damaged furniture stored there by Nassau Interiors, forcing the firm to cancel a sale scheduled for this weekend. There was also smoke and water damage.

All Princeton's volunteer fire companies responded, and returned at 12:38 a.m. "It's the first time I know of that a burglar alarm caused a fire alarm to be sounded," commented Police Chief Michael Carnevale.

YEDLIN DECISION?

Township Hopes So. Township Committee members hope they can vote on the Yedlin public question at their first February meeting next Monday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

They will be voting on whether to endorse a recommendation from the Township Board that Board Yedlin be given authority to build 100 units of public housing at the Mt. Laurel Road housing project.

ent Ash Township Committee, having acted the previous fall, declined even to second an anti war resolution by a straight party line vote (Democrats favoring, Republicans opposing).

"Approve the Cambodian invasion?" asked TOWN TOPICS. "No," most respondents said.

1971. Curiously, in 1971, the war seemed to take a breaching space, to wind down. Sharp confrontations were, so it seemed, past. A kind of apathy seemed prevalent.

1972. But in the spring of 1972, violence came again as students (the SDS had gone by this time) demonstrated against IDA, joined by faculty, many of whom sought arrest. For four days in May, the demonstrations were the focus of town interest. 214 arrests were made by Borough Police. Borough Mayor Robert W. Chaskey (a Republican) was earlier for a Borough Town "ship citizens' petition urging an end to the war" he carried it to Washington to Princeton's new Congressman, Peter H. Frelinghuysen.

High school students, disturbed by undergraduate actions at IDA, sponsored their own demonstration and invited the town to join them. On a warm rainy evening in May, Princeton youth and their parents, carrying candles, walked in silent procession down Nassau Street to the Governor's mansion.

The last peace march came this January, 1973, an inauguration of Conscience march, just before Inauguration Day. Whether supporters of the Vietnam War watched all this January will not leave without setting a record, never before in Weather Bureau history has winter's first snow fallen as late as the 29th of this month. Despite the current chill, January goes out with a surplus of degrees over normal — nearly 100 for the 31 days.

February is scheduled to start with precipitation in some form, the Man says — beginning Thursday and continuing into Friday. The weekend, however, should bring clear weather and nothing colder than normal for mid-winter.

In anguish over the years, it would be hard to say Debates on campus brought out students who supported American involvement, there were occasional speakers, supporters of the war spoke out in TOWN TOPICS' question box. The public library built a "pro-war", "anti war" book display last year. Student demonstrators were chastised in letters to the editor.

But supporters of the war did not advertise in the news papers with manifestos, nor stand on Palmer Square passing out leaflets. Opponents of the war were, in Princeton, the articulate ones, and they spoke over a period of eight long years.

Two Borough School Candidates Give Views on Current Issues

"In the past few years, the quality of Princeton's schools has begun to slip: kids are under no restraints, they are disrespectful to teachers, there is vandalism, homework has almost disappeared. Kids are in school to learn reading, writing, math, and speech and I feel they are not learning these as well as they should."

Hawley C. Waterman Jr., Borough candidate for the school board, discussed his views in an interview this week.

"The most important thing," he continued, "is for the school board to take the bull by the horns and clearly define goals: find out what the people want and implement it."

"Where learning is concerned," he continued, "I notice that when homework is assigned, I watch my kid at work and seems to me the kids are teaching themselves. I want a teacher to plan what my children should learn, and teach them. If my child has a problem and I say, ask your teacher, he'll say all the teacher says is 'look it up yourself.'"

Mr. Waterman protested that elementary students in, say, Johnson Park do not learn the same subject-matter as those in Littlebrook, so that when they enter the Middle School, "the teachers don't know where to pick up and begin. Other parents complain to me about this, too."

Evaluation Needed. The candidate urged evaluation of all programs, and publicity of the results. "Standardized tests aren't THE answer," he stated, "but they should be one of the tools to evaluate."

"Our kids shouldn't take a back seat to anyone in the country—and who knows?—maybe test results would give Princeton a chance to show off. Maybe we're better than we think! But parents don't think so, because they are kept in the dark. Parents would welcome a return to standardized tests so they could know where their child stands in relation to other children."

In regard to discipline, Mr. Waterman said, "I'm convinced that only 12 percent of students in the Middle and

Hawley Waterman

High School are disruptive—by that I mean, can't live up to the basic rules and regulations."

Discipline and respect must be stressed, he urged. "All kids must learn to obey the rules of the school and punishment must be administered equally to all. You hear continually about a double standard of justice; I don't know whether that's true or not, but it shouldn't be. And all state and local laws should be enforced until they are changed."

"Kids must respect school property, private property, their teachers, their fellow students, and themselves," he continued, "and I think 'respect,' both for others and themselves, is a key word."

Suspended students, he proposed, should be moved from the classroom to a separate facility "where they would get the help they need." It is pointless, he added, to suspend students and "give them two or three days' vacation."

Instead, "give them help from specialists educate them somewhere besides the regular classroom, then return them to the classroom."

As a board member, Mr. Waterman said he would "fight for a strong inter-scholastic program for our high-school. Athletics are very important, especially as an outlet for some teenage

This is the last in a series of interviews with candidates for the Princeton Regional School Board. This week, TOWN TOPICS interviews the two Borough candidates: Judith Getis, 92 Moore Street, and Hawley Waterman, 140 Snowden Lane. Both have children in the schools.

"The major difference between school board candidates is outlook: looking back 20 years to an idealized past, or looking forward. I am committed to looking forward," said Borough school board candidate Judith Getis in an interview this week.

"Some people look back to times when things were simpler, or they yearn for 'the good old days' which were not all THAT good for every student," she continued, "this attitude is based in part on fear of change."

Many of Princeton's school problems, she suggested, are national. "Not the result of any local mis-management," and she cited high school racial tensions.

"There is a national concern," she said, "for drop-outs and the disadvantaged, a desire to make educational opportunities more equal and Princeton is attempting to deal with this."

Merely restoring discipline isn't coping with racial problems, she declared. She proposed student programs during school hours or on Wednesday afternoons, with experts like school psychologists talking about tensions. She would like the high school to explore the "house" system so that students would be in smaller units, getting to know one another more; she would like more black administrators and teachers, and strong support for the new Human Relations Committee.

"These are more effective, long-range, than a crack-down from on top," she said.

Diversity Emphasized. Turning to her commitment to the future, Mrs. Getis enlarged the idea to include a commitment to diversity. "Not all kids learn the same way, or operate the same way, and not all are college-bound."

As author, with her husband, of a high school geography curriculum, Mrs. Getis supports curriculum reform. She points to a new math curriculum now used by Princeton High's Learning Community, and urges the school board to "be more involved with curriculum and program."

"The board should hear about EVERY program: its problems and solutions, what's being taught," she urges. "I hate to leave this up to the administration—board involvement could have impact because the board hears more of the community's concerns."

She also suggests a curriculum Resources Center where teachers in all grades could find anything they needed. "Selection of materials is left up to the teacher, and the teacher has no way of finding what the total range of materials is."

Revise Tenure Policy. Evaluation brings up tenure. Mrs. Getis urges lighter hiring procedures for teachers, more evaluation during the three-year period before tenure, and stricter tenure policies. The Wednesday Program, she adds, could be used to strengthen teachers who already have tenure.

There is no harm in using standardized tests to evaluate students or programs, if you know exactly what you expect to get out of them," she explained. "You cannot test every kid, every year in every subject—teachers would not only rebel, they would start to teach FOR the tests. Also, it is very expensive to do all the testing that has been suggested."

"I would prefer," she continued, "to have the school board hear from teachers about their programs. Many new programs are trying to do more than teach facts—to teach self-discipline and responsibility, for example."

"I have found that a lot of parents are like me: mildly dissatisfied with the schools, but not ready to leap into extremism. Most parents don't feel they have a voice. I'd like to see the school board provide more information on what they're considering; for instance, they should have let parent know farther ahead of time that pre-K might be terminated perhaps a year ahead. This would avoid a real atmosphere."

Parent, too, he urged, have some responsibility to keep informed. "We think I would be a good idea if we visited each other more frequently."

Blacks and Whites in Flare-up at High School

A skirmish between black and white students at Princeton High late Monday morning apparently starting as a boy-girl flare-up, ended with four students (two black, two white) charged by police with assault; a 14-stitch face cut, minor injury to a teacher and a live-day sentence of suspension for a student.

Last Friday, according to school officials and police, a black youth slapped a white girl during a class. Monday morning, her white boy friend went to PHS Principal Patricia Wertheimer and asked what action she planned to take. She replied that a meeting was planned with H.J. Anderson, guidance counselor who is in charge of boys' discipline.

Before the meeting could take place, the youth went in search of the black student and jumped him on the door step of Building 61, one of the "outhouses." He tossed the youth over the low balcony of the building, according to reports, and the black youth sustained a cut lip.

Friends of the black student passing by asked him what the matter was and who had caused the injury. A group of about 20 black youths—and both police and school officials agree about the approximate number—then found the white youth in the auditorium side parking lot, and the black attacked.

In the melee, four students and one teacher—John Scott—were injured, police said. Superintendent Philip E. McPherson said that belts and fists were the only weapons. Mr. Scott, whose finger was injured, has filed charges of assault against the belt-wielding student, according to Dr. McPherson.

Kicked in the Face. Injured students were taken to the Princeton Medical Center for treatment, including a youth who had been kicked in the face and needed 14 stitches to close the wound. Police report that all injured students were bystanders to the fight, and all were white. One other student was treated for cuts and others with bruises.

According to Dr. McPherson, the black youth who wielded the belt was not the youth who had struck the girl and who had, himself, been attacked. The student with the belt has been suspended for five days. School officials add that he has a record of trouble and suspensions.

(A student who is suspended Dr. McPherson explained, is out of school altogether, although sometimes home-bound education—a kind of tutoring—is provided. The high school may use this home study to a greater extent for suspended students, he indicated.)

Police were called to the high school Monday by Dr. Wertheimer and Alfred Sere, assistant principal, and also by a parent reporting an assault on his son, police said.

Monday afternoon and Tuesday, Borough plainclothesmen were inside the high school.

During Monday's skirmish in the parking lot, one student ran into the nearby guidance office, followed by an assailant. He has charged that a guidance secretary denied him the use of a telephone to call home. Guidance personnel reportedly broke up the fight in doors between the two youths.

The student's alleged denial of a telephone is under investigation, the superintendent said. Dr. Wertheimer, and Juvenile Officer Douglas Watson have been talking with parents of white students who were attacked. School officials are continuing their investigation of the situation.

THENTON MAN CHARGED With Marijuana Possession. Stephen J. Lucas, 23, of Trenton was charged last week by Borough police with possession of under 2½ grams of marijuana.

He was arrested on Rose Dale Road near Elm by Detectives Timothy Hazing and Thomas Michael and later released on a complaint summons.

FLUTE IS MISSING

From Student's Locker. Claudine Frank, 115 Broadmead, a student at Princeton Day School, notified Township police last week that her flute had been taken from her locker or between January 19 and 22. She valued it at $100.

TWO ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Two Princeton residents were fined Monday by Judge Theodore T. Tuma Jr. in Borough court.

Mary L. Sullivan, 63, 61 Leigh Avenue, pleaded not guilty to a red light violation but was fined $15. Walter W. Musick, 181, 140 Alexander Street, paid $15 for failing to yield while exiting from a private drive.

boys." Mr. Waterman is director of athletics at Newark State College.

He added that as a board member, he would "do the home work, listen to every body and vote the best for the kids in this town."

Molester Sought

Borough police are looking for a man who propositioned two 12-year-old boys and physically molested one of them. Police Chief Michael Carnevale said that the incident took place January 26 on Hullah Street around 10 in the evening.

The suspect is described as white, about 45 years old, crew cut, wearing glasses, a beige overcoat and dark trousers. Chief Carnevale requested that anyone having any information about the suspect notify the Detective Bureau at Borough Hall or call the police's confidential, 24-hour number 924-8221.

The four lucky girls whose names are drawn — win the flowers. Now how's that for job-manship!

COMPANY HERO: Invited out for the weekend — Cocktails or a game of cards maybe. Whatever — a little bunch of flowers thrust into the arms of your hostess couldn't hurt. In Germany, for instance, it is considered a great faux pas not to present your hostess with flowers. Wunderbar!

PEACE-TIME HERO: There is a saying that behind every successful man, stands a mother-in-law; an amazed mother-in-law. Why not lay such babies to rest — take your mother-in-law one of our lovin' bunches of flowers. You too can say "How sweet it is."

THE POTTED HERO: We don't mean tipsy either. There is great interest today in the use of plants depicted in all home settings. Ecology has heightened a growing awareness of plants, too. Chances are your beloved would just love a fine collection of our beautiful house plants but might consider that to indulge herself would be an extravagance. Not so — but if you buy them for her she'll probably love them all the more. Our lovely sales girls will help you pick out thirteen for just $10.00.

After all we are in the business of providing fresh flowers for all occasions — and we work hard at it every day.

GROUP HERO: We never cease to be amazed at how far people will travel just to get our flowers. Recently we've found people taking turns and buying up for the neighborhood. Imagine — a car pool for Allen's Flower Specials. We can't think of a nicer commentary of our efforts.

CHILDREN'S HERO: Children take a particular delight in flowers. And don't "Mommy." Think a minute there, big, busy daddy. Will your children grow up to remember how you used to take them to the flower store every Saturday. There is much more to be gained from such an adventure than just a very delighted "Mommy."

For gosh sake, don't say "Flowers for me — now what have you been up to." That can turn any man off. Also don't pout if he doesn't bring you home flowers every week. We want your man to feel free to express himself as he sees fit. Above all men have a great need to feel appreciated the same as you do. An affectionate response from you is really what he looks for. Driverless Tractor-Trailer Slams into 8 Cars

An unmanned tractor-trailer, carrying a pre-stressed concrete structural component for the University's new dormitory complex, Spelman Halls, rolled out of control Thursday afternoon down University Place, sending its combined 25-ton weight crashing into eight parked cars and the marquee of the Penn-Central Railroad office. Miraculously, none of the cars was occupied and no one was hurt.

Sgt. Robert Anderson has charged the truck driver, Raymond G. Unangst, 26, of Martinsville, with failure to set his brakes properly. Sgt. Anderson reported that the driver had set the trailer's brakes but not those of the cab.

Damage to the railway station (see picture) was estimated, from one report received by the police, at between $5500 and $6000. Two of the parked cars were extensively damaged; the other six were driven away by their owners.

According to Sgt. Anderson, the loaded tractor-trailer had been parked on University Place for about 15 minutes, waiting to unload, when it started to roll backward.

After traveling 69 feet it rammed into the side of a 1973 station wagon, pushing it into a second car. The trailer then zig-zagged across to the McCarter side of University Place and struck three cars in the rear.

It turned left next, hit two more cars, continued on, made a sharp left, jumped the curb and struck the marquee-type roof over the entrance to the railway station. It struck the eighth and last car, owned by James W. Heard, 306 Nassau Street, and came to rest ten feet from another row of cars.

TRUCK STOP: The front entrance of the Penn-Central railway office on University Place looks as if it might have been involved in the London blitz, after being struck last week by a runaway tractor-trailer, which also damaged eight parked cars.

Traveled 453 Feet. When Sgt. Anderson arrived, he found the car underneath the trailer and the tractor-trailer engine still running. Total distance traveled: 453 feet. Sgt. Anderson said that two things probably stopped it: the dolly skids under the trailer, which he found resting on the sidewalk, and the resistance of the crushed car as it was dragged along.

The entire left side of the first car the 1973 station wagon owned by Robert G. Given of East Windsor, was demolished. The left front fender and muffler of Mr. Unangst's car were ripped off.

The six owners who were able to drive their damaged vehicles away were John B. Burke of Trenton, whose pickup truck sustained damage to the left side; Sebastian Sisti of Trenton, rear end and transmission damage; Elmer R. Schroth of Trenton, rear end damage, bent frame; Hartley E. LaChapelle, 214 Clover Lane, trunk and left and right panels dented; George W. Kellner, 470 Riverside Drive, front fender, panel dented; and Edgar A. Dunham 3d, 73 Brookstone Drive, rear fender pushed in.

Police said many of the owners of the damaged cars were commuters. "It's a miracle no one was coming up University Place at the time," said Chief Michael Carnevale.

Of Film Program at YWCA. "Eye of the Storm", a filmed record of an Iowa teacher's experiment in teaching the workings of prejudice, will open an evening program at the Princeton YWCA on Friday at 7:30.

The film was shown to fourth graders at Riverside School during the past week, and the reactions of the children were registered on video tape. This tape will also be featured at the YWCA meeting.

A discussion after the showing will be led by a panel of experts, consisting of Lou Gantwerk, school psychologist at the Middle School; Fran E. Roitnick, school psychologist at Johnson Park and John Witherspoon schools; and Dr. Hilston Anderson, school psychologist at the High School. Other panel members are Edith Francis, principal of Riverside School; Virginia Euell, assistant principal at Valley Road, and Charlotte Danielson, team teachers at Riverside School, who showed the film to their class.

The program is sponsored by the YWCA Committee for Racial Justice. The film and videotape will be followed by round table discussions, refreshments and dessert. The evening program is a sequel to the series sponsored by the YWCA Committee for Racial Justice which featured forum discussions on racism in the schools.

For the current series of programs, the evening time has been chosen in accordance date working men and women as well as students. Reservations may be made by calling the YWCA, 924-4825, until noon on Friday.

BUDGET EXPLAINED

For W. Windsor-Plainsboro. The West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional Board of Education has released a breakdown of the estimated 1973 school tax rates for West Windsor and Plainsboro townships. The figures show that a large fraction—almost 50% in West Windsor—and 100% in Plainsboro, of the anticipated rate increases cover debt service already authorized by public approval of high school bond issue referendums in 1970 and 1971. The increases are therefore not subject to voter action at the school budget referendum on Tuesday.

In the race for seats on the school board, James Bottomley, Jr., David Boshes and Mrs. Dorothy Baer will contest for one vacancy in West Windsor. Walter Myers, the incumbent, will not seek reelection.

There is no contest in Plainsboro. John Versnel is running for another term, while Mrs. Elfriede Dilatush has been nominated to replace Philip Rodefeld, an incumbent who will not be on the ballot.

For West Windsor, the estimated 1973 school tax rate is $2.44 per $100 of assessed value (assessed at 100% of estimated true value), an increase of 44 cents from the 1972 rate. Of this 44 cent increase, 19 cents represents the increase in debt service costs and 25 cents represents the increase in current expense and capital outlay costs related to an 11 to 13% growth in enrollment and the opening of the district's new high school next fall.

For Plainsboro, the estimated school tax rate for 1973 is $1.67 per $100 of assessed value (at 100% of estimated true value), up 13.3 cents from last year's $1.535 (assessed on the same basis). This 13.3 cent increase is made up of a 28.5 cent increase for debt service purposes and a 15 cent decrease for operating costs.

School Board President Robert Duncan explained that the decrease in the Plainsboro tax rate for operating purposes results from a relatively large increase in assessed valuations in that township without a corresponding in-

McLEAN NEXT
In Folk-Rock Series. At the age of three, so his press agent says, singer-songwriter Don McLean, who will appear at Alexander Hall Friday, February 2 at 8 p.m., could sing dozens of songs just as the artist on the record performed them. Although he couldn't read, he could tell the story apart by the title and various scratches on each record.
Today Don McLean, one of America's leading singer-songwriters, is currently in Princeton, Ill., where he is writing American-style songs on the folk scene. He is also a singer.

Other event scheduled. McLean's series of folk-rock and jazz events for Alexander Hall in the coming week include the coming term of Church and Chong on Saturday, February 24 at 8 and 11 p.m.; Miles Davis on Saturday, March 3, also at both 8 and 11; singer Bette Midler on Monday, February 19 at 8:30 p.m.; and songstress Betty Paul (Mc and Mrs. Jones) on Saturday, March 17 at 8 p.m.

MUSIC

In Princeton

VARIED PROGRAM LISTED

For Marlboro Concert. The Marlboro Music Festival will present an unusually varied program of chamber music in its "Music from Marlboro" concert at 10 McCosh Hall on Tuesday, under the auspices of the Princeton University Department of Music Chamber Concerts.

Three noted artists will participate: pianist, Ruth Laredo; violinist, Jaime Laredo; and cellist, Jeffrey Solow. They will perform Mozart's "Trio in G Major, K. 564," "Second Sonata for Piano and Violin, Op. 36a" by Busoni and "Trio for Piano, Violin and Cello in A minor" by Ravel.

Ruth Laredo, pianist, has performed with such leading orchestras as the Philadelphia Orchestra, Detroit Symphony, Boston Symphony, American Symphony under Strykowski and National Symphony at the John F. Kennedy Center in Washington. She makes her debut this year with the Cleveland Orchestra. She has been heard often at Marlboro, and has performed with members of the Budapest and Guarneri String Quartets.

Jaime Laredo, violinist, was first prize winner of the coveted Queen Elizabeth of Belgium Competition at 17. Since then, he has appeared as soloist with virtually every major orchestra. He was a featured artist on the Marlboro tour of Europe and the Near East in 1965 and has been heard at the major festivals in this country and abroad.

Jeffrey Solow, cellist, graduated with a degree in philosophy from UCLA. Born in Los Angeles in 1949, Mr. Solow has studied with Gregory Alter, Gabor Rejto and Gregor Piatigorsky. In addition to an active performing schedule, including participation in the festivals of Spoleto, Marlboro and Claremont, Mr. Solow is on the faculty of UCLA and assists Gregor Piatigorsky at USC.

Tickets are available at the Concert Office, Woolworth Center from 10 to 4 weekdays, and at the door the evening of the concert. The tickets are $3.50; students, $2. There are no reserved seats.

RECITAL IS PLANNED

By Nadia Koutzen, Violinist. Nadia Koutzen will present a recital at Westminster Choir College on Tuesday, February 13, at 8 p.m. in The Westminster Playhouse. This recital is the fourth event in the 1972-73 President's Series.

Miss Koutzen's program will include the "Rondo" from Mozart's "Haffner Serenade" which was arranged by Kreisler; "Sonata in A Major," Opus 162, by Schubert; Bach's "Sonata no. 1 in G minor," for violin alone; Franck's "Sonata for Violin and Piano;" and Ravel's "Tzigane." She will be accompanied by pianist Robert Guradnik.

Miss Koutzen has toured widely in the United States and Canada, has given several New York recitals, and has been soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra, most recently in March of 1972. She was a member of the New York Sinfonietta until the death of its director, Max Guberman, with whom she recorded Vivaldi concertos.

She has appeared in Princeton in recital, in numerous chamber music concerts, as well as playing annually in the school system. She teaches privately in Princeton and Tom's River, and is on the faculty of the Westminster Choir College Preparatory Department.

The recital is open to the public without charge, but seating is limited and passes will be required. They may be obtained by calling the Choir College, 921-7100.

FOLKSINGER COMING

For Feb. 9 Concert. Folksinger Jean Ritchie will appear in concert on Friday, February 9, at 8:15 p.m. at the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church. The concert is sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society.

Jean Ritchie, a native of Virginia, was born in Shenandoah County in Eastern Kentucky from a large family with a great tradition of singing. She has been one of the most respected folksingers in America for more than 15 years. Her voice always remains fresh and new as she sings the songs of her heritage as well as those she has written about her homelands and collected from other sources.

Miss Ritchie sings mostly unaccompanied or accompanying herself on the Appalachian dulcimer and occasionally the guitar. Miss Ritchie is also a noted scholar and folklorist, lecturing and participating in many seminars on folk music.

IT'S NEW To Us

A BIT O' THIS & THAT

At the Calico Cat. You live with a foot in two worlds when you're an antiques collector. You glory in the past and enjoy the electronics of the present. There's delight in the copper kettles, burnished to a rosy gleam; the hand-stitched quilts the Gody's Book illustrations suitably framed, and the pleasure of a high-powered motor car when you search for more.

The Calico Cat is the newest of the Meccas for collectors in this area. It opened about 10 days ago in a smidgen of a house at 15 Main Street, Kingston. Its proprietors are Clara Kennedy and Tita Vivian, two Princetonians who have been antique collectors for so long that they just plain needed a shop as an outlet for their own keen interest. You'll find them very knowledgeable.

Talk to Mrs. Kennedy about English Staffordshire. We saw in the shop charming miniatures—an unusual little house, a matched pair of dogs, and more. Mrs. Vivian is interested in plates with sayings on them and there are some fine samples in old china.

The shop has a good starting assortment of wooden boxes and woven baskets. The boxes are all on the small size—for your silver—or jewelry—or whatever. The baskets come in some fascinating shapes and have hickory handles. The quilts and the baskets were the first things sold on the shop's opening day.

There's a lot of country Americana—a three-drawer chest, and a larger chest; a black rocker; a hand-carved duck decoy. From abroad, an Irish table about two feet in diameter, wood topped and held by a tripod of intricate ironwork.

The shop "is into" dolls and doll houses—we saw a very useful white house with a nice arrangement of rooms. In fact, Mrs. Vivian said, "We're nutty about dolls and doll houses," so drift in.

The Calico Cat has a growing supply of antiques for do-it-yourselfers to work on—some straight-backed chairs, a metal tray, all ready for painting or staining are among them. There will be a steady supply of these. The chairs are about $10 up.

Among the pleasurable objects of days gone by: several molds of pottery—with interesting patterns in the bottom. The matched plates are very lovely—especially if you collect the old blue-and-white patterns. There's also a fascinating memorial plate—marking the laying of the Atlantic cable with sailing vessels painted around the border. The color is brown on white. And, in English Rockingham porcelain, a set of six dessert-size plates with glowing pink borders around a central theme of hand-painted flowers.

AT THE CALICO CAT: On the mantle of the Kingston antique shop is a glimpse of yesteryear's household items: an iron clock, painted deep red, with a black dial; above it, Currier & Ives' print "The Queen" in the original frame; beside the clock are a pair of Davenport ironstone plates, a two-tone, gold-patterned pitcher, and old brass candlesticks.

fooling around, we found two-candle sconces in brass; an old metal birdcage, an inlaid box, and of course, the welcoming gleam of a cooking pot by the andirons on the floor.

There's an old mantle for sale, if you're remodeling a room, and on it is a small iron sailor who holds matches for the fire. A coffee table, too, and other small tables.

Interesting mirrors; a blue-jacketed wooden toy soldier some child played with years ago; and much more.

The Calico Cat is open from 10 to 4 Wednesdays through Saturdays.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

At The Nutrition Center, a Princeton customer dropped into the Nutrition Center not long ago and found to her surprise that a cross-cut roast was $1.09 a pound—against $1.99 in the supermarket. The Nutrition Center, proud of its USDA-certified beef which is grown organically, was surprised at the discovery, too. The Nutrition Center beef is free of the chemical diethylstilbestrol (DES) injection.

Other meats in the freezer include beef patties and chops; hot dogs, sausages and lunch meats with no chemical cures, no coloring added. Robert Mangold, the owner, pointed to the fresh chicken and told us, "They are so different from grocery store chickens that you think it's a it's an entirely different meat!"

The Nutrition Center is located on US 130 Hightstown. Coming from Princeton, you take a right turn at the highway traffic light and the shop is in the Warren Plaza shopping center less than a mile down the road on your right. Or, the shop delivers in Princeton on Tuesday afternoons.

We got to talking with Mr. Mangold about protein, which we noticed on the food supplement shelves. The Nutrition Center has it in liquid, powder and tablet form. "From the hair on your head to your toenails, you are made of protein," Mr. Mangold told us. "Maybe you don't eat eggs or drink milk, so you may not be getting much protein in your diet. You need it to rebuild cells."

"The brain and the heart, we have read, require 30 to 40 grams of protein every day of your life. One egg equals six grams; a glass of milk is about eight grams. You can add this protein to your fruit juice or milk or take it in pill form. A geriatric may eat very little protein—snacking away on bread and jelly."

The protein, he says, comes in many flavors, with the greatest variety available in tablet form. He keeps the tablets handy at his desk and eats them during the day. He also notes that multi-vitamins are now available in chewable tablets, as are the multi-minerals and children's vitamins. "Also chewable vitamins C, E, and bone meal." The shop carries a dozen complete lines of food supplements.

Nutrition Center now has many new varieties of the herb teas. The most popular are the mint and rosehip varieties. Among the new ones: Shepherd's purse, bone-set herb, corn silk, huckleberry.

Under refrigeration are the natural cheeses. Some are made from raw milk, others are unsalted. Varieties include cheddar, pizza, Swiss and Monterey jack (milder than cheddar). The shop carries Continental yogurt made with no preservatives in the raw honey, and with berries for flavor.

News Of The Theatres

vited to call Ron Brockway, 799-1689.

Street Theatre usually functions in the summer, but workshops are being held weekly at Christ Congregation Church, 7 p.m., each Monday. The group consists of young people interested in all phases of the theatre activity.

A cash award will again be offered by Street Theatre for an unpublished play to be given as part of Theatre Summer program.

Anyone may submit a play of any length on any subject. Additional information may be obtained from Mr. Brockway.

READY FOR 'TEMPEST'
Opens March 1
Shakespeare's "The Tempest" is, says Mr. Carter's Daniel Seltzer, "is more than any; it is a rich and complex spectacle, often full of threat and danger to emphasize those inner forces in the play which rob it of its many beautiful beauties."

The McCarter "Tempest" staged by Louis Criss who is the theatre's artistic director will open Thursday, March 1, at the first play in the spring half of the repertory season.

Meaning that "The Tempest" has often been produced with emphasis on its light, fairy quality, Dr. Seltzer continues, "This will not be the interpretation in our production. Light, surely, the play is but it is the light of a great and open sky after storm and pain; benevolent is the touch of the center of the action but only after his own inner torment and decision-making only after a period of the blackest anger and the most doom-filled views."

Sinkingsque based "The Tempest" on accounts he had read of the wreck of the ship "Sea Venture" upon a coral reef near Bermuda in 1609. Before the wreck, Bermuda had been regarded as a "devil's island," but the sailors reported, upon their rescue and return to England, that the island was a paradise.

AIDE NAMED

For McCarter Edward Morrison, Princeton graduate with the class of 1971, has been appointed Administrative Assistant to Princeton University's Committee on Theatre.

In his new post, he will assist Daniel Seltzer, chairman of the Committee in planning and administration. He has been production secretary at McCarter, coordinating the theatre's various events.

He majored in music at Princeton and was a student in the University's first credit course in practical theatre work serving as production manager for the Henry IV Part I directed by Dr. Seltzer.

Recreation Activities

the Joint Recreation Commission

A gymnastics program sponsored by the Princeton Recreation Department has an enthusiastic group of over 60 girls participating. Carol Sinkler and her three assistants are teaching the class each Saturday afternoon from 1 30 to 4 30 at the Princeton High School Gym. Because of the tremendous turnout, Miss Sinkler finds it best to divide the class into groups according to ability. Each group has the same basic format. All classes learn and execute warm up exercises which are followed by tumbling routines. Specific routines are practiced for the remainder of the period. The girls practice on uneven parallel bars, the side horse and the balance beam. Floor exercises are also very popular.

The gymnasts who range in age from 9 to 13 are working hard in hopes of putting on a show for the public at the conclusion of their classes.

Another gymnastics program taught by Princeton Recreation Board member Merriely Dean is offered at Princeton University from 9 until noon Saturday mornings. The class is basically offered to faculty children with a limited number of children from the community enrolled.

The 30 students range in age from 6 to 12 and are divided into three one-hour sessions, beginners, intermediate and advanced (with two openings still available at the advanced level). The class began January 13 and will run for twelve weeks.

crease in pupil enrollment from Plainsboro. By law, he said, the current expense and capital outlay portions of the budget are distributed between the two townships in proportion to their public school enrollments as of September 30, 1972.

Mr. Duncan emphasized that the tax rate increases associated with debt service costs represent the principal and interest payments due on bonds sold to finance construction of the new high school. This year's rate increase would have occurred a year sooner, he said, if the Board had not used $108,000 of investment income on unexpended construction funds to make interest payments due in 1972. When construction is completed, this investment income will no longer be available.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. John Hadden expressed regret that the Budget Issue of the Regional Review, mailed to voters on January 17, reached some school district residents only this week. The cause of the delay is being sought, he said. He invited residents who have questions about the budget but could not get to the January 22 public hearing to call him at his office, 739-0200, or to attend one of the several neighborhood "coffee" planned by the P.T.A.

THE BUCK STOPS HERE ON FEBRUARY 6th WE HAVE AN ACTIVE SCHOOL BOARD TO ELECT

It doesn't matter if you have a child in the Princeton School system or not. THIS IS THE MOST IMPORTANT ELECTION OF THE YEAR. Because what happens in our schools today will effect our community tomorrow.

Unless our school system educates all of our children well, parents who can afford it will continue to send their children to private schools. And those of us who can't will continue to suffer the frustrations of the last few years.

We believe we need an active school board that will question every aspect of the school system, face the problems realistically, and act on them.

We also believe we need people who recognize a problem when they see it — and have the courage to do something.

We therefore urge all Princetonians to VOTE for ANDREW SHELPUR and HAWLEY WATERMAN in Princeton Borough, and GAIL PIETRINERNO in Princeton Township.

When a school system fails a child, it is the child who feels a failure.

Medical Center Nears Fund Goal of $380,000

Based on "gratifying response from all sectors of the community," The Princeton Medical Center's annual fund appeal is "well within reach" of its $380,000 goal. The announcement was made this week by Richard Baker, co-chairman of the Center's campaign to meet a mortgage commitment on its $1 million emergency department.

With the campaign four weeks from its conclusion, Mr. Baker reported Medical Center trustees were increasingly confident of its success.

"Based on total contributions of $335,000 to date," he said, "we conclude that the residents and businesses of the Princeton area are as committed to the cause of comprehensive health care as are those of us directly associated with the Center."

Noting that the Center established new records of service in 1972, Mr. Baker stressed the importance this year of "total community participation . . . in light of federal regulations which prevent non-profit hospitals from applying operating income to debt retirement.

Contributions Vital. "By maintaining health care charges at or below actual costs," he added, "The Medical Center must rely exclusively on voluntary contributions to meet its long-range financial obligations."

Since the Center's new emergency department was opened in May, Mr. Baker reported, more than 28,000 area residents have received treatment for injuries or sudden illnesses.

"By its very nature," Mr. Baker observed, "the emergency department was built and equipped to meet the unforeseen needs of virtually anyone living within a 10 mile radius of The Center."

"Like all non-profit, voluntary health care institutions in the State," he said, "our facilities, and especially the emergency department, could not be made possible without the widespread support of the communities we serve."

Since it was instituted in 1966, The Medical Center's annual fund appeal has made possible construction of a major patient care addition to Princeton Hospital unit, and acquisition of medical equipment throughout The Center.

Two Direct Appeal. This year's campaign is headed by Mr. Baker and Frederick Lawrence.

Writing to former donors this week, Lawrence contended that "if those who have not yet given to the annual campaign will respond now as generously as those who have already contributed, we will meet our critical objective."

In addition to its annual program, The Medical Center sponsors a "Living Memorial" program, which enables residents to honor deceased friends or relatives through acquisition of medical equipment and furnishings.

All contributions to The Medical Center are tax deductible.

and state level," he said.

Campaign financing disclosure legislation, one area the organization has actively supported, was enacted in two states last year. The Common Cause New Jersey Project has been instrumental in passage of similar governing measures in the New Jersey House and is now pushing for Senate approval in Trenton.

On the national level, Mr. Gardner mentioned Congressional staffing as an important reform that has not yet received the public attention the problem warrants. One important issue that does seem to be gaining a good deal of support among Washington Congressmen, according to Common Cause polls, is required open committee meetings.

Mr. Gardner also reminded the New Jersey activists of the power a citizens' lobby can wield. He recalled his skepticism of letter writing campaigns when he first began in the lobbying business after serving as Secretary of Health Education and Welfare in the ADD TOPICS ADD TOPICS 1960's. He was surprised to find Congressmen admitting that as few as 75 letters from their constituents on a single issue is considered a gift.

The occasion of Mr. Gardner's trip to Princeton was a private discussion related to funding the New Jersey Project. Common Cause has 10,000 members in the state, 60 in the Princeton area.

FRED BAUER

Township School Board

Candidate Believes

We Can Do

Much Better

Fred Bauer, 38, is a writer who has lived in Princeton for 10 years. He and his wife have four children, one who graduated from PHS last year, a sophomore at PHS, a Littlebrook 2nd grader and a nursery schooler. He has been a newspaper writer and columnist, a radio broadcaster, a magazine editor (which he still is) and an author of books. One of his most popular books was about a 2,000-mile cross country bicycle trip he made with his family.

Here's how he thinks it can be done:

Dear Friends:

For the past two months, I have been going to school. Not only to classes (I've attended them in every Princeton school), but I've been learning much from talks with students, teachers, administrators, parents, school board members and people throughout the community. All of these conversations have convinced me of one thing: We all care deeply about our schools, and we all want about the same thing for our children—a good, well-rounded, useful education. Our main disagreement is how to achieve that for every child. How do we deal with that disagreement? I believe one way is to close ranks and set about working on discernible problems. Some which I would suggest include the following:

1) Communications—We need to fill the information gap and begin to really communicate with each other. Some times school people have assumed the public informed when it was not, resulting in unfortunate misunderstandings. The administration and the board share responsibility for keeping the community informed, and if elected I intend to press both to meet that responsibility.

2) Diversity—We need to offer diverse programs taught in diverse ways. I take issue with those who think there is only one way to learn. We live in a pluralistic society with pluralistic needs and to accommodate those needs we need a variety of approaches—multi-aged and self contained classes, traditional as well as innovative teaching techniques, an imaginative curricula for both non college and college-bound students.

3) Discipline—We need minimum standards of behavior to insure order and a learning atmosphere. Students must know the rules and the rules must be enforced fairly and consistently so there is no room for charges of injustice.

4) Teacher quality—We need, more than ever, good teachers who can stimulate learning curiosity and help students grow. Likewise, good teachers should be interested in their own professional growth, and good school systems should help them grow with programs designed to improve their skills. In light of current tenure laws, I believe Princeton must strengthen its teacher development programs.

5) Evaluation—We need formal evaluation of our children's basic skills at regular intervals. The results of those tests should be shared openly with parents to give them an indication of a child's relative progress. We also need more thorough evaluation of programs—old and new—as well as better evaluative procedures for measuring teacher effectiveness.

6) School costs—We need to face the compound problem of rising costs and falling enrollment realistically. Some belt tightening is inevitable. Yet, we must strive to maintain a good balance between what is sound education and responsible fiscal policy. Easy economies can be costly conservation. Nonetheless, tough decisions lie ahead and school board members will need great sensitivity and understanding to wisely order priorities.

7) Human relations—We need to develop more openness between the community and our schools. Teachers must try to be more open with parents and vice versa; administration with teachers and the reverse; school board members with the community, adults with students. If honest, open communication could be achieved, I believe we could get on with the job of building the bridges of trust Princeton so sorely needs. Together, we can get things together, and if we do everyone will benefit—most importantly the children we seek to educate.

Sincerely,
Fred Bauer

No Skating Now

A few cold days do not make for safe ice-skating. It takes, said Recreation Director Donald Barr, approximately five days of weather in the teens to get the ice required — a minimum of four inches. And that is solid ice, not snow ice which is a porous mixture of snow and ice. The ice is checked twice a day by P.M. Howard Sweeney, the ice safety officer.

Mr. Barr also stressed that anyone seeking skating information should call the Recreation Department at 921-9480, not the police department. He reported that early last week, when the temperature shot up into the 60s, Township police complained of receiving about 30 calls in one day inquiring about ice conditions on Lake Carnegie.

Where Were Your Sons?

To the Editor Town Topics:

I am writing to the parents of 3 young boys started on their life of crime.

Do you know where your children were last Sunday, January 21st around 6 p.m.? I can tell you. They were on Witherspoon, snatching the purse, and knocking over an elderly lady, recuperating in fair Princeton, from devastating surgery.

It had been a heavenly day. I enjoyed the beauty that is Princeton's campus, watching the beautiful young people, black, white, yellow, playing tennis, playing soccer, enjoyed the beauty and excitement of the new shows at the Art Museum; I sat in Chapel and enjoyed the organ music; always there were young people.

Instead of taking a taxi for the short distance, I decided to walk home and continue to enjoy the beauty, peace and quiet of your fair Princeton.

Then the attack — swift.

sudden, horrible. The money is all the scoundrels want. The personal papers, Blue Cross, Medicare cards mean nothing to those young criminals; the police said they just throw them away. They are what I need.

Check on your 3 sons. Find out where they were Sunday around 6. Do they seem to have extra cash. If you find my papers, please return them to the police. I'm afraid I shall not forget that attack. The blow could be softened somewhat by the return of my papers and by the thought that the parents, at least, cared enough to try to help the victim.

Don't Segregate Elderly.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Mr. Greene's indignation and suggestions (Mailbox, January 2) are an interesting example of the negative social stereotype of the aged.

Why segregate or ghettoize old people, he asks. He wouldn't like to live in an "old age home" of 50 residential units occupied by elderly people who are mostly within ten years of his own age. What, then, is wrong with neighbors of similar age? They would likely find interests in common just as do, for example, young married couples with children.

Mr. Greene believes that a group of the old could and would do nothing but survive meagrely on reminiscences. Well, what's wrong with reminiscences especially when they can be shared by people who remember similar times and events? Why can't that be a happy and enlivening occupation? Actually, old people are not so different from the young in this respect: the old like to talk about what they did; the young like to talk about what they do.

Further, when older people are together, they are just as likely to walk, garden, shop, clean, cook, read, paint, compose, work for money, or act as volunteers as are the young — subject to the state of their health.

But Mr. Greene's near hysteria leads him to propose in one breath that the old and young be forcibly mixed and in the next that the old be removed altogether — at least from Princeton. Why not Princeton, if this is where people have lived, or want to live? Why Florida, in particular; and why, above all, a mobile home? Why not, in every "town of the future", a section of pleasant residential units built with ramps, wall rails, and other safeguards and accessible to shops and transportation?

Segregation, Mr. Greene? No. Acceptance of, and thoughtfulness towards, individuals throughout the life span.

Trash Dismays Resident.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I have been a resident of Princeton for the past 38 years and am justly proud of it. In my travels, and conversation I tell of what a well-kept town I come from and make others feel guilty of the way their town is kept.

However, I am disturbed. If not appalled, at the way parts of our town have been deteriorating in the past 2 years.

All you have to do is walk down Nassau Street from Witherspoon to Maple Street and see the condition of the sidewalks leaves, paper, broken bottles, tin cans and all kinds of litter that have not been picked up for the last six months.

Then walk down Maple Street look at the condition of some of the houses, yards, and sidewalks. What a change in the past 20 years and if let go another 10 years it will be a slum area.

Myself, and some of my neighbors try hard to keep our property looking good, but it is discouraging when a lot of owners just don't care, some as long as they collect big rents and tenants care less.

This is serious as it adds to the devaluation of all property on streets in this condition.

Is there any rule that says our City Fathers should be concerned about this condition or is it they just don't care, and are more concerned with politics and other foolish matters.

Also, is there no civic committee that can wake up the citizens to take pride in their town and not let it fall by the wayside like Trenton and other towns?

I am writing you because as a newspaper you can play an important role in calling this to the attention of all Princetonians and wake up our City Fathers who I am sure can take some steps to get owners and landlords to correct some of the conditions that exist. If this is not done soon we can look for Princeton to deteriorate like some of our other beautiful towns.

Fire Safety Lacking

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Early this evening on Alexander Street there was a small fire in a house. It was quickly put out and all but one of the fire engines had left.

A resident of the house was standing in front of the house smoking. He threw his still lit butt into the bushes within five feet of the house that only a few minutes earlier had been on fire.

We were still commenting on the carelessness of this when some firemen entered the house. Several of them were smoking. One of them threw his lit cigarette on the ground.

It seems strange to us that people whose lives are so much affected by fire are this careless. We just hope this isn't a typical attitude towards fire safety.

Mrs. Marge Baker is the reading specialist at the center. For two of the seven periods she is there, there is an aide to assist her. When assigned students do not attend the reading center, they are considered "cutting" class and are dealt with accordingly.

Budget Support Urged.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I urge the voter to reject the contents of the Dwight O. North letter in the Town Topics of January 25th. Forgetting for the moment about the nasty innuendos concerning the school board, the sly and contemptible attacks on the teachers and their authorized bargaining agent, and the far out twisting and manipulating of figures it is important that every voter support the school budget in this transition and adjustment year.

Many of us have been admiring the prudent and well-thought-out actions of this year's school board. I'm particularly impressed by the way they have combined excellence with prudent fiscal management.

Thank goodness we are allocating above average funds for school purposes - that is precisely why many of us are living in Princeton and our children are enjoying the privilege of a superior education in our schools.

And a word of thanks to the "special" teachers who help the handicapped and troubled children to become useful citizens. As the father of a handicapped child, I know from personal experience how these teachers work hard and devotedly - way beyond normal standards. They deserve every penny they get - and more.

Let's all rally to support the schools and work together with the teaching staff and administration in a spirit of harmony and cooperation.

Waterman Endorsed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Having been associated with both public and independent school education in the Princeton Community for a number of years and realizing the vital need for providing our youth with the best possible educational services, I urge and encourage all Princeton residents to exercise their responsibility to these young people by voting in the School Board Elections next Tuesday. Let us have a record turnout and demonstrate our genuine interest in their welfare!

I am in a position to endorse Mr. Hawley Waterman wholeheartedly for your favorable consideration, inasmuch as he served The Hun School as a loyal, dedicated member of its faculty for several years. He believes in the importance of maintaining discipline, without which no educational system can function in an orderly manner.

Mr. Waterman is understanding, kind and considerate. He possesses both moral and intellectual integrity. I am convinced that he would prove to be an asset to the Board of Education and bring credit to our fine community of Princeton.

Budget Brainwashing Show.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Board of Education of the Princeton Regional Schools held a so-called hearing on its proposed budget for 1973-74, at the High School, Tuesday night, January 16. It was not much of a hearing - more a one-sided affair in an atmosphere reeking with apathy and defeatism.

Fewer than 40 people were present, despite the fact that the meeting was about the spending of $8,000,000 of taxpayers' money. The principal time was consumed by three members of the Board, who put on a brainwashing show to support the Board's spending program.

A noteworthy feature of the affair was a proposal to finance a major decrease in costs of approximately $300,000 a year into justification of an increase in expenditures of $100,000 a year.

It was revealed that the budget would provide salaries of $15,000 or more a year to 61 teachers. This is to go up the following year to salaries of $15,000 a year for 128 teachers.

There was nothing in the nature of an accounting for stewardship in terms of needs, results, and costs. The word "taxpayer" was never mentioned. Nothing was said about the disorder, vandalism, collapse of discipline, or absence of measures for character formation.

Nothing was said about terrorism in the schools. Nothing was said about the relevance of their 18th century curriculum or about preparing the individual for life in a Constitutional Republic.

One is bound to wonder whether it is a board of education or a camouflaged front for a labor union. It was very clear that first and always comes their program for taking care of approximately 320 bureau rats in the style to which they would like to become accustomed and at the expense of the 4,000 or 5,000 taxpayers or whatever the actual number may be.

It is high time that the people in the community become concerned about the kind and quality as well as the cost of education. The most important causative factor in the crime wave as well as inflation is archaic education. More than $94 billion is to be squandered on it in the United States this year. As the cost goes up, the quality goes down.

GAIL PIETRINFERNO TOWNSHIP SCHOOL BOARD CANDIDATE MEANS WHAT SHE SAYS

To say that we have problems in Princeton schools would be an understatement. We have had teachers vote no confidence in the Administration. We have parents concerned that Princeton schools are no longer interested in teaching the basic skills nor in providing proper discipline for our children. These problems are real and they must be dealt with.

Letting students decide what and how much to learn has not produced in our children the hoped-for pure motivation to learn. Let's not wait until it's too late to help them gain a sense of direction and responsibility. I am one psychologist who is concerned that the great wave of freedom engulfing our schools is producing results that are not very reassuring.

As candidate for School Board, I am more interested in improving our schools than in just giving them a pat on the back. We need realistic not just theoretical approaches to deal with difficult problems.

- We need:
- 1) Improvement of the educational atmosphere through:
 - a) curriculum evaluation so that students are motivated by course work that is beneficial to them; and
 - b) proper respect for teachers, staff, and fellow students with the administration's backing.
 - 2) Student accountability for using their time constructively whether in the Open Campus or in the Learning Community.
 - 3) A teacher-parent type of development program that actually results in teacher development, and in parental awareness and involvement in education
 - 4) A better education for our tax dollar, with any budget increases being spent on programs that directly benefit our children
 - 5) A thorough evaluation of all innovative programs to see that our children are getting the good education they deserve.

Gail Pietrinferno

On February 6 vote for the candidate who means what she says. Vote for the candidate who has the time and expertise to make the School Board a commitment and not just an activity.

ART In Princeton

ATTENDANCE SOARS

At Art Museum, Attendance at the Art Museum of Princeton University which in 1972 played host to some of the art world's more exciting events topped the 100,000 mark last year, continuing a climb that nearly doubled the attendance figures for any previous 12 month period.

In a year climaxed in early December with the opening of an exhibition of works from the Norton Simon Inc. Museum of Art — and the first public unveiling of that institution's newly-acquired $3 million Raphael — a total of 100,592 visited the University Art Museum in McCormick Hall at the heart of the Princeton campus.

This represented something of a quantum jump in attendance for the Museum, one of the oldest museums in the country. In 1971, for example, 59,770 was the total attendance, while the comparable figure for 1970 was 47,575. A decade ago, before the Museum had moved into its present building, yearly attendance averaged about 10,000 visitors.

During the last month of 1972 alone, reflecting the widespread interest in the Simon exhibition — some 22,141 visitors were recorded at the Museum. The selection of 100 words of painting and sculpture from the Norton Simon Inc. Museum of Art, one of the leading corporate collections in the country will be here for at least another year.

"The highlight of the opening of that exhibition on December 2 was the first public unveiling of Raphael's 'Madonna and Child with Book,' a purchase by the corporate collection which Mr. Simon, the California industrialist, placed among his 'greatest acquisitions in twenty years of collecting.'"

Another major event at the Art Museum in 1972 was the early May opening of the first exhibition of major works of art owned by Princeton's alumni, a group of paintings and sculptures from some of the country's finest private collections. The one-month exhibit included 112 paintings and 22 sculptures, many never shown publicly before. The works ranged from an 11th century bloodstain cameo to a 1971 Kenneth Noland painting.

Other exhibitions over the year — both large and small — suggest the range and diversity of art interest within the University community which the Museum serves; in the early spring a selection from the Museum's own collections of 19th and 20th century French drawings; in the fall an exhibition entitled "Bridges and Sculptures," commemorating the 100th anniversary of the birth of the Swiss bridge designer Robert Maillart; a little later in the fall, a major loan exhibition compiled by Professor Robert J. Clark of the University's Department of Art and Archaeology devoted to the important "Arts and Crafts Movement in America," which linked the 18th Victorian and World War I periods.

Currently on exhibit in the Art Museum is the work of the American abstract expressionist Robert Motherwell, who played such a key role in post World War II art in the U.S. The exhibition is the outgrowth of a graduate student seminar in the art department, and was put together by the graduate students themselves in close consultation with Motherwell.

FROM HAITI

To South, N.Y. — Haitian artists will be on exhibit at Squibb Gallery February 5th-10th. The exhibit will be on loan from Squibb Gallery at Kingston, and will include sculpture. Most of the works, however, a few of which have been exhibited in the past before.

Haitian native art, whether the country's people and landscape, blends religious imagery and social customs. It is estimated that many a 500 native artists work in Haiti today. Some who have achieved international recognition will be represented in the Squibb exhibition.

Squibb Gallery 1, located on Route 206 in Lawrenceville, N.Y. The gallery is open Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

SEITZER IS NOMINATED

By N.J. Drama Critics, Daniel Seitzer, Chairman of Princeton University's Committee on Theatre and Professor of English, has been nominated by the New Jersey Drama Critics Association to receive a special state award for his work at McCarter Theatre. Also nominated for his award are Paul Barry of the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival and Frank Carrington.

The winner will be announced at a presentation February 1, at the Meadowbrook Theatre Restaurant, Cedar Grove, N.J. The 1972 awards will be the second annual awards made by the New Jersey Drama Critics Association.

PLAYHOUSE

1776 (now playing) is the film version of the hit Broadway musical. It has a pretty fair amount to say about the goings on in the Continental Congress held in Philadelphia during the summer of 1776.

The cast includes feisty John Adams, Joveseck Thomas Jefferson, John Hancock with his fly swatter, Benjamin Franklin with his aphorisms. Towering over them all — though never seen is General George Washington, described by one delegate as "the gloomiest man on this continent."

Daniel Seitzer

Adams and Franklin are determined to push to a vote the question of independence from Great Britain. Howard Da Silva's portrait of Franklin gives the film a high mark of style, and William Daniels as Adams is a firebrand to remember, he has just enough humor left to redeem himself.

The screenplay is witty, indicating that the delegates were a rather bawdy bunch. As a musical, there are many pleasures. The pace of the film, however, is on the slow side.

PRINCE

The Valachi Papers (now playing). One Mafia boss knocks over another in a constant grab at power while the numerous henchmen of both sides get their's in the process. Blood, brutality, sadism, guns, knives, mobsters, big deals, famous big meetings pile on and on in this film version of 'Peter Mann's sensation creating book.

Whereas the Mann book used Joseph Valachi's life as the time gauge to give order to the old newspaper stories of the Cosa Nostra, the screen play tries to put flesh and blood on the character. Charles Bronson plays Valachi, who was first a mob driver, then a bodyguard and ultimately a small time operator who did "favors." He occasionally comes up with facial expressions, but nothing more in the way of characterization.

GARDEN

Travel With My Aunt (Now playing) is based upon Graham Greene's beguiling best seller. The theme is the confrontation of exponents of two life styles: Aunt Augusta who belongs to the school that "some of us get out of life exactly what others are stupid enough to put into it," and her nephew Henry, a bank teller who sincerely believes one gets out of life what one puts into it.

This sets the stage for a series of elegantly bizarre adventures in which Henry loosens up a bit. Magie Smith, as Aunt Augusta, can do marvels with an arched eyebrow or a fox fur slung over her skinny figure, and she's superb in the all-too-brief flashbacks to the 1930s. But most of the time she is an old lady and somewhat miscast as a senior citizen. Alex McCowen manages a nice bit of peer sense as Henry.

Assaults Doubled, Narcotic Arrests Dropped, Overtime Hours Tripled in Borough in 1972

A near doubling in the number of assaults, a decrease in narcotic arrests for the first time in years and a 50 percent increase in overtime hours were three of the highlights in a wealth of year-end police statistics released Monday by Chief Michael Carnevale. All figures compare 1972 to 1971.

Assaults were up from 47 to 77 and Chief Carnevale commented, "This is one that concerns us very much. I don't know what to attribute it to except we live in a violent world and we are beginning to realize the problem on a local level. It's a sad commentary to see that many assaults in the Borough."

Narcotic arrest decreased from 11 in 1971 to 57 in 1972, of whom were juveniles. This is the first time since the drug problem focused on the community scene in 1966 that there has been a decrease in drug arrests," commented the Chief.

In part, he attributed the decrease to the use of a full-time foot patrolman on Nassau and Witherspoon which has helped to eliminate the free wheeling exchange of drugs at the site. People are using drugs in their apartments and using it more discreetly," he said.

Overtime hours jumped from 6,000 to 12,000. Explaining the rise, Chief Carnevale reported that it "reflected over the yearly report. We had a helluva lot of work to do. Everyone is paid the patrolman in the form of extra duty and Chief Carnevale acknowledged it created a problem with scheduling.

Chief Michael Carnevale

Very Stimulating Year
Chief Carnevale summed up the year by saying "It was one helluva year for the police department in every area. It began in January with the Silva incident. In May the IBA demonstrations caused departmental sheer exhaustion.

No one knows after three or four days of six in and out of the problems it caused for the personnel. Then there were the charges of police brutality that stemmed from the IBA demonstrations. It was a very stimulating year."

"I'm very proud of the force," continued Chief Carnevale, who took over as chief August 1, succeeding Peter J. McCroon who retired after a 37 year career. If you look at all the activities in this report it proves that the men are out there doing their jobs and they're not afraid to take on a problem that arises."

The Borough force consists of 14 patrolmen, 2 sergeants, five detectives, 2 meter and 11 stenist and Chief Carnevale described the morale of his department as "good."

Statistics, Statistics, Statistics! Chief Carnevale could glean from his report such items as how many cars were ticketed for parking within 50 feet of a stop sign (64) to how many homes were entered during the day (80) to the value of recovered stolen property ($17,661) to which street motorists are most likely to get caught speeding (Harrison).

Total arrest in 1972 were 62. "I can't believe it for an area two square miles," commented Chief Carnevale. Up from 134 the year before however, he noted were 14 IBA arrests. Of those arrested 18 were juveniles.

Drugs were 26, from 19, breaking and entering, 119 from 109, armed robbery, 1 from 8. Muggings were up from 11 to 13, rapes from 1 to 3 and car theft from 14 to 20. House break-ins dropped from 117 to 91 as did commercial break-ins from 17 to 19. The value of stolen property was $121,090 compared to $157,624 the year before.

Parking Tickets Up. During 1972, 13,111 overtime parking tickets were issued, 6,003 more than the year before. Of this 3,108 were for violation of 15 and 30-minute meters. Chief Carnevale attributed the increase to two meter aids working a full year for the first time.

Parking fines swelled the Borough coffers by $140,300. Motor vehicle fines added $27,085 more and criminal fines and costs added another $13,520 for a total of $180,905.

Despite what one may have thought, police issued only 50 tickets for double parking, 16 less than a year ago. 1,574 were ticketed for parking in a no parking zone, 12 more than in 1971.

Accidents jumped from 255 to 322 but injuries were down to 91 from 104. Bicycle (6) and pedestrian (11) accidents were the same for both years. There were fewer moving violations, 1783 vs. 1945, fewer speeders, 543 vs. 731 and fewer drunken drivers, 23 vs. 27. In 1972 Streets yielding the most speeders were Harrison (14), Hodge Road (116), Hamilton Avenue (10) and Prospect (34).

Chief Carnevale attributed the drop in the number of moving violations and apprehension of speeders to police spending additional time with drug enforcement, in court and at IBA.

Police handled 187 juvenile (18 and under) cases, 13 more than 71 juvenile drug arrests were up one to 17, those charged with shoplifting rose from 18 to 27. The six-man detective bureau conducted 1490 investigations compared with 1058 in 1971. They held 2,092 interviews, fingerprinted 508 persons, took 518 photographs and made 1,636 confidential record inquiries. All increases over the previous year.

Among other things in 1972, Borough police logged 4,998 foot patrol hours, 1,551 traffic duty hours, 857 training hours, drove six patrol cars 134,275 miles, responded to 1,013 burglar and fire alarms (an increase of 242), investigated 61 fires, extinguished 43 of them and gave first aid to 50 people.

"Let's just say the Borough is an active two square miles," said Chief Carnevale.

CRIME ON THE RISE

In Township. Crime in the Township increased 17 percent in 1972 over the previous year, according to year-end figures released by Chief Frederick M. Porter Jr. Breaking and enterings increased from 83 to 121, larcenies from 173 to 208, robberies from three to four and car thefts from 12 to 13. Assaults, however, which were up sharply in the Borough dropped from 47 to 36—a 47 percent decrease. The value of property stolen was $110,800 as compared to $58,716 in 1971.

Miscellaneous complaints such as simple assault, fraud, malicious mischief, possession of stolen property, disorderly persons and other offenses totaled 3,109—2,445 less than a year ago. Police service calls were up from 7,052 to 9,754. Forty-seven more adults—124—were arrested in 1972 as compared to 1971: forty-one percent more juveniles were arrested—210 vs. 148.

Police investigated 379 motor vehicle accidents (up 51), seven drunken drivers (up 3), and issued 1,964 traffic summonses (up 182). Township patrol cars traveled 272,900 miles as compared to 258,087 the year before.

TWO DANCES SCHEDULED To Benefit Choir Fund. Two dances, one for teens and one for parents, have been scheduled for the weekend of February 9-10 to raise money for the European trip of the Princeton High School choir this summer.

On Friday, February 9, The Fordham Road Blues Band will give a benefit rock concert and dance in the high school gym from 8 to 11:30. The band, which is headed by former choir member Joe Bordash, is well known for its blues music.

All proceeds will go directly to the choir fund, since the band is donating its services. Admission to the dance will be $1. Tickets will be sold at the door.

The Princeton Holiday Inn on U.S. 1 will be the scene of the parents dance on Saturday evening, February 10. Starting at 9, there will be free hors d'oeuvres, a cash bar, door prizes, and dancing to the music of Arnold Roth's orchestra. The dance committee, is chaired by Mrs. David Martin.

The facilities at the Holiday Inn and the proceeds of the liquor sales have been donated by Mrs. Helen Asteriou. Arnold Roth's dance band have donated their services as well.

Tickets are $5 per person, contribution, and may be obtained from Mrs. Bobby Lewis, 29 Bainbridge Street, 921-2993, or at the Holiday Inn.

STORY HOURS PLANNED For Pre-School Children. On Tuesday afternoon, February 20 at 1:30 p.m., the Children's Department of the Public Library will begin a series of six story hours for pre-school children ages 3-5.

Each session will include readings and film strip and will be about one half hour in length. Parents who wish their children to attend should register them at the desk in the children's room before Friday, February 16.

TUTORS ARE NEEDED By Study Center. The Princeton Study Center is seeking foreign-born adults who would like help with English conversation. Currently, 13 pupils are being tutored by volunteers, and a dozen more tutors are waiting for pupils.

Tutoring is on a one-to-one basis, with tutoring schedules and locations are left to the discretion of the tutor and the pupil. If desired, central meeting rooms are available.

Those requesting help are asked to call Mrs. Spencer Reynolds at 924-1920.

Budget Balancing at University Will Raise Salaries and Aid, as Well as Tuition, Rents

Princeton's Board of Trustees has approved a financial plan for the University that projects a balanced operating budget totaling more than $88 million for the next fiscal year.

The general plan, developed by the University's Priorities Committee, a 16-member faculty-student-staff group chaired by Provost Sheldon Hackney, calls for higher tuition and room costs for Princeton's students in the 1973-74 academic year. It also recommends an increase in the University's financial aid to students.

Following two years of successive deficits totaling $2.5 million, Princeton wound up fiscal '72 (the year ending June 30, 1972) with its budget in approximate balance and estimates for the current fiscal year (ending June 30, 1973) also anticipate a balanced budget.

In its calculations for fiscal '74, the Priorities Committee projects expenses for the year at $88,291,000 and income at $88,356,000, for a small surplus of about $65,000. Its report to the President warns, however, that a swing of only one percentage point in a budget of this dimension could mean a shift of nearly one million dollars in Princeton's financial picture.

Four Recommendations. The complete details of the University's operating budget for the next fiscal year will be considered by the Trustees at their next regular meeting in April. In addition to approving the general plan to day, the Trustees also approved four of the Priorities Committee's specific recommendations requiring early action:

1. A recommendation to raise Princeton's tuition for the next academic year by $250, to a total of $3,300 for about 4,300 undergraduates and to $3,400 for some 1,400 graduate students. Board costs will remain constant and room charges will increase $50 for undergraduates. In addition each student will pay a fee of $30 for a cotext telephone system. Room and board rates at the Graduate College will rise 6.34 percent.

2. Significant increases in student aid and graduate student support. Anticipating a further decline in outside support for graduate student fellowships, the Trustees approved an increase in University support of nearly three quarters of a million dollars. For University fellowships alone this is a commitment of $1,803,000, which will permit slight improvements in the pattern of graduate student support.

For undergraduate aid, the Trustees set aside just over $3.7 million as the amount that should be available to students from next year's budget, an increase over this year of some $265,000. This increase will offset the rise in tuition and room costs for student receiving aid.

3. Faculty and staff salary increases. The salary increase pool amounts to 5.5 percent for fiscal '74 for faculty and staff salaries, the maximum allowable under the federal wage guideline for Phase II. Along with their recommendation the Committee said that "we also wish to reaffirm our advocacy of the merit principle in distributing these salary increases; we feel strongly that excellence should be rewarded, both for faculty and for supporting staff."

4. A rise of eight percent in the rent of faculty and staff housing and in married graduate student housing.

Increase in faculty. In addition to these recommendations, which called for Trustees' action at this time, the Committee report also set forth a number of other policy suggestions in Princeton's budget future.

The general plan, for example, calls for "some modest growth in fiscal '74. In the size of the Princeton faculty—after several years in which the number of faculty positions has been essentially constant while enrollment has risen.

The recommendation is that the faculty be increased in fiscal '74 by about 33 full-time members (the faculty currently numbers 571 full-time equivalents on the teaching budget). An additional allowance of $100,000 was included in the recommendations for a program of special appointment to enhance the excellence and diversity of the faculty.

Another major policy issue discussed in the Committee report involves operations of the University Computer Center. In fiscal '74 the Center will be the largest single source of outside income. When a government facility on the Forrestal campus the Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Laboratory completes the installation of its own computer equipment.

To offset this loss, the Priorities Committee recommended that the Computer Center investigate the possibility of selling computer time commercially, a question with a variety of policy, as well as legal and tax, implications. For fiscal '74, however, the report recommends a reduction of about $150,000 from the Computer Center's original budget request. These cuts will involve only peripheral equipment not reduction in staff.

Other recommendations contained in the report:

Library. The Committee endorsed the provisional plan adopted last year to provide a 7.4 percent increase in general funds expenditures for library acquisitions in FY '74 and a 2.2 percent increase in library staff.

Athletics. The Committee recommends an increase of $50,000 in the Athletics Department budget for the next fiscal year, providing some latitude for Princeton's new Director of Athletics Royce N. Flippin, Jr. as he assesses needs of the entire athletic program and new directions it might take.

Leave of Absence for Administrators. The adoption of a very modest program of leaves of absence for administrative staff members is recommended, in program designed to encourage professional growth and the learning of new skills. The cost of such a program in its first year would be $35,000.

Supporting Services. A variety of changes in such areas as security, janitorial services, health services are recommended, reflecting, in part, the increased enrollment since the University began coeducation.

SHEEHAN CASE DELAYED

For One Month. The application of Timothy J. Sheehan Jr., before the Borough Zoning Board to add four floors to the unfinished office building at 363 Nassau Street and a restaurant-bar on the first floor has been postponed until the February 22 meeting of the board.

Mr. Sheehan had requested the postponement in a letter, which the zoning officer received Tuesday.

"Because it is our normal policy to grant such requests," board chairman Charles St. John told about a dozen neighbors in the audience, "we are postponing this case without prejudice." Mr. St. John apologized for the last-minute turn of events and the fact that all neighbors could not be notified in time. He also acknowledged, in answer to a question, that the board had received a letter asking that the application be dismissed.

Mr. Sheehan told that board that he had mailed letters to residents within 200 feet on Tuesday, which stated his request for a postponement, but they had not been mailed because of the postal holiday Thursday in memory of former President Johnson.

Mr. Sheehan is acting as agent in the application for James Reedy of Fort Pierce, Fla., who has purchased the half-finished office building. A member of the zoning office reported that Mr. Reedy, Mr. Sheehan's father-in-law, has signed an affidavit, stating that he is the owner of the property when he was forced into bankruptcy last year.

In his letter, Mr. Sheehan told the board he needed extra time to determine the exact status of his liquor license with Borough Council.

Zoning Officer Upheld. In a decision involving an application heard in November, the board unanimously upheld a ruling by the zoning officer, Donald Hanev, against Mrs. Olga Hall.

Mr. Hanev had ordered Mrs. Hall to cease retail selling at 41 Spring Street. Mrs. Hall had, in 1963, obtained a certificate of occupancy permit to operate a beauty parlor here. She testified before the board that she had a so far the beginning sold jewelry, dresses, antique and other retail items.

However, a zoning ordinance in 1968 changed 41 Spring Street from Business 1 to residential office. Mrs. Hall's lawyer, Charles Renda, contended that the zoning, in ordering Mrs. Hall to stop selling retail, was excluding her from protection of a valid, prior non-conforming use.

Because of the legal questions that were raised during the hearing, the board requested that Mr. Renda submit a legal brief to the board.

That brief and a memorandum from the board's own attorney, William H. von Oelsen Jr., about the case were handed to board members just prior to their meeting. They spent the next three hours reviewing each before making their decision.

Appeal Probable. Mr. Renda indicated he would appeal the board's decision. He can either come before the board again and request a variance or appeal the decision in court within 45 days. Mr. Renda told the zoning officer he will do one or the other and possibly both.

In its ruling the board noted that it was clear from the record that the applicant had a certificate of occupancy only

The Governor's VIEW

By Gov. William T. Cahill

My annual "State of the State" message delivered to the Legislature this month is actually a blueprint of what we hope to accomplish in the coming year.

Of course, like any annual report it reviews past accomplishments - and failures - but its real thrust is to let the lawmakers, and the public, know the aspirations and goals of the administration. And also, to give some indication of the priority assigned to its plans.

I think reactions to the message pretty generally agreed with my own feeling that the most important and ambitious and far-reaching objective among all the areas covered is our intention to establish a new mass transit agency.

Transportation affects everyone in the State, whether or not you travel and whether or not you drive. Highway construction can affect the development of your town or region and is reflected in the population density, highway congestion, employment, property values and taxation.

Advantages. Mass transportation will have a similar effect, whether or not you use it. It has the advantage, however, of consuming less real estate than highways when you compare the number of road lanes required to move by automobile at peak hours the same number of people that can be moved by mass transit. And mass transit produces less pollution.

As the most densely populated state in the nation, we in New Jersey face particularly acute problems in trying to solve the daily dilemma of moving people from their homes to where they want to go and back again.

We have been paying over our heads for an alarming rate in recent years until we have reached a point, in some of our more congested areas, where there is simply nothing left to pave without prohibitively expensive demolition; which also raises the point that the cost of land, as with any commodity which is in demand and becomes scarce, has skyrocketed.

Conditions can only become worse unless we do something now to solve this crisis.

Mass transit can do the job. It can move more people faster and cheaper through congested areas than any alternate means of travel. But in addition to being fast and cheap, it has to be clean, comfortable, convenient and dependable if it is to lure the American motorist from his car.

This has been proven both by the PATH system from Newark to New York and by the Lindenwold High Speed Line in South Jersey.

New Agency. Similar attractive means of mass transport must be provided in other parts of our state.

Under the plan I have proposed, it will be provided by a new agency, formed by combining the excess resources of the New Jersey Turnpike Authority, the New Jersey Highway Authority and the New Jersey Expressway.

These three agencies have performed splendidly in the field of toll highway construction and operation. Their expertise and experience can serve the State in a new, but related capacity.

The three agencies would continue to exist and perform their present functions, but as subsidiaries of a new mass transit agency. Their combined boards would form the board of the new organization.

And most importantly, their combined revenues, in excess of what is required for their own operations would be used in financing mass transit projects in the entire State.

I am told that this source could produce from $30 million to $60 million in annual revenues by 1976. But even more significant is the fact that this could be used to ride up to ten times that amount through bonding that would finance the projects which must be undertaken.

In addition to financing, the agency would be empowered to construct, reconstruct, improve and maintain all transit facilities.

Legislation to accomplish this will be presented to the Legislature in the near future.

for a beauty shop and that after obtaining it she soon carried on a variety of retail activities.

"Under the prevailing zoning ordinance a new certificate of occupancy was required for any change of use," the board stated in its decision. It added that the change from beauty service to retail was a "substantial change of use, and therefore in violation of the zoning ordinance and could not give rise to a lawful non-conforming use."

HUN STUDENTS PREPARE

For Heart Fund Drive, The entire student body of The Hun School will take over responsibility for conducting the annual Heart Fund appeal in Princeton Borough and Township on Thursday, February 8. Classes will be cancelled, and faculty and parents will provide transportation as the students ring doorbells asking for contributions at some 5,000 residences in the Princeton area. The project will involve 340 students and about 60 faculty and parents.

This is the second year Hun

Theft Guard Program Still Operative

Township police chief Frederick Porter reminds all residents that Project Theft-Guard is still in operation and he urges all citizens to take advantage of it.

Under the program, persons receive free use of an engraver to engrave their license number on their valuables. A list of each article engraved is kept by the police and the homeowner, in turn, receives decals for their doors, saying that all valuables on the premises have been engraved so they can be readily identified by law enforcement agencies.

"It's a good program," commented Chief Porter. "Not fool proof but it is a wonderful deterrent to theft."

Students have conducted the campaign, and they hope to top last year's contributions, which totaled $4,500. It is expected that the Pennington School will conduct a similar campaign in the Pennington area.

Julie Miller, a Hun School sophomore from Westcott Road, said the main objective last year was to "set an example for other schools in performing a communal act of charity, where everyone participates in a single project. We feel it permits large-scale community projects to be carried out quickly and efficiently, and also bring the students closer together. It's one activity where there are no spectators. Everyone in the school is involved."

Students will begin the campaign about 9:30 a.m. and make calls throughout the day.

When families are not at home, envelopes will be left at the door so contributions may be mailed. Mrs. Barbara Stoddard and Mr. William McQuade are the faculty advisors for the project.

SPORTS FANS!

I
YOU
KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

Here's one that's hard to believe . . . But, it's true . . . Two of the greatest pro basketball players of all time, Bob Cousy and Bob Pettit FAILED to make their high school basketball teams . . . Bob were cut from their squads in their high school days! It seems incredible, but it's been confirmed by the National Basketball Association. And it proves again that truth is sometimes stranger than fiction.

Has any basketball player ever scored all his team's points in one game? This amazing feat happened once in a high school game in Alabama. A player named Walter Garrett scored 97 points in one game a few seasons ago, and the final score in that game was 97-54!

Here's one for you bowlers. Do you have any idea what the odds are against rolling a perfect 300 game? According to the American Bowling Congress, the odds against a 300 game, even by the best of bowlers, are 367,000 to 1. There have been almost 7 million games rolled in ABC tournaments over the years and only 19 perfect 300 games in all that time. That's where they get the odds of 367,000 to 1.

Did you ever wonder what would happen if your parents developed a chronic illness? It is a terrible thought, but our new $100,000 catastrophe accident and sickness insurance policy written without evidence of insurability would help.

PHS Quintet Hopes to Remain Best in County

Memorandum from the Princeton High School basketball team. To: High school basketball fans in Mercer County. Subject: Team standings.

Message: We're No. 1!
This memo has not been seen circulating in Princeton High but well it might. For weeks now, Tony Bailey and other members of the PHS quintet have been saying they are in a top team in the county but until now many were attributing the claim to excessive optimism on the part of the Little Tigers. But no more.

Princeton High's victory over Notre Dame and Edison last week, coupled with Hamilton's stunning two point upset of Trenton, put the Little Tigers on top in the Mercer County standings with a 4-1 record. Trenton is 5-2.

Overall, the Little Tigers are 12-4 and in second place (behind Penn-Jersey) in the Delaware Valley ratings. The next closest Mercer County team is Trenton in fifth place with a 10-5 log.

In short, the Little Tiger have not only surprised all other coaches in the area with their fine play but their own coach, Marvin Trotman, as well. Admitting the team is playing better than he thought they would, Trotman at the start of the season had hoped the Blue and White would win half its games. Last year with the same personnel, with the exception of the graduated Kent Hun, PHS was 7-17, and 2-10 when Trotman took over in January.

Camden Twice, PHS will get an opportunity to see how good it is south of here when it plays perennially strong Camden for the first time Thursday afternoon at 3:45. It will be at Cedar Ridge Tuesday afternoon and then meet Camden again here next Thursday in a return game.

After that, PHS will stand or fall in the county race, when it closes out its season playing Strainer, Hamilton, Ewing and Notre Dame all within the space of 10 days. All are Mercer County teams. Ewing is the lone county team to register a win over PHS this year. Trenton and the Little Tigers do not play each other.

Edison Lost Avenge, Princeton avenged its earlier one point loss to Edison. Its first of the season here Friday afternoon when it tore the Eagles apart with an 83-63 win. At one point, PHS led by 30 points. It was a rough afternoon for Edison coach Bob Howard who spent the afternoon cutting time out to berate his players in a loud voice. In two games, however, he has yet to say one word to Trotman. Trotman answered the question of who was the better team by observing after the game, "They (Edison) have no business being on the same court with our club."

Then Trotman added a comment which could apply equally to Notre Dame coach Bill Hogan, who after his team had been beaten by PHS, 62-49, described his players' performance as "the worst ever in my 11 years of coaching."

"It's easy to say a team looked bad," stated Trotman. "But if a team makes another team look bad, as we were, it's a big difference."

The big difference in the return game with Edison was the foul line. "We stayed out of foul trouble; it was a long time before they shot 1 and 1," said Trotman, referring to the first game when Edison beat a steady parade to the free throw line, sinking 23 of 28 charity shots.

That, and the dazzling shooting of Tony Bailey who sank a career high 31 points. Bailey got the final two PHS baskets in the third period and then came out smoking at the start of the final period, accounting for the next nine Blue and White points.

Underneath, PHS dominated the boards again off the line rebounding of Leon Robinson and Larry Miller. "We really hit those boards," said Trotman, adding that "Leon is finally starting to play the ball or is capable of." Robinson had 13 rebounds in the first half alone.

While fans are more aware of a dazzling shooting performance of a Bailey or Bobby King, the coach sees the less obvious contributors, and among these is Miller. More than any other player, Trotman has consistently cited Miller for his steady play and defensive abilities.

At 6-1 and with a thin frame, Miller looks as if he would be aqua-hed during the bruising play under the boards, but time and again, it is he who comes down with the ball.

Backing up Bailey offensively against the losing Eagles (9-7) was Robinson who had 19 points — his high for the season — and Gil Spencer, who added 12 "played his usual steady game," said Trotman. Princeton's win was its fifth in a row.

Irish Embarrassed. A 9-1 point by the Little Tiger at the start of the second half against Notre Dame last week carried them to a 37-25 lead.

So frustrated and irritated at his team's play was Irish coach Hogan that he benched his starters with 3:20 to play in the period.

Notre Dame had entered the game just off a tremendous game against Trenton in which it lost to the highly-favored Tornadoes by a scant two points. But Notre Dame was flat against PHS.

"They weren't the same team I saw against Trenton," agreed Trotman, who said that the Irish were probably down after the Trenton loss. But as Trotman observed, whatever fight the Irish had entering the game, PHS took away right from the beginning. And while PHS was, in Trotman's words, "putting a five-man effort together," the host team was becoming unglued. Hogan said later than he couldn't recall a more embarrassing performance.

Bailey led the victors with 20 points; Robinson added 13 and had 19 rebounds. King had 12, Miller 10 and Spencer 5. A single free throw by Jim Bolster was the only other PHS point.

The Little Tigers are for real point.

BROWN, YALE NEXT

For Tiger Quintet. A Princeton team which is playing now-you-see-it, now-you-don't basketball goes into a pair of Ivy League games this weekend still hoping that it can claim the runner-up spot in the Ivy League by the time the season ends. Brown and Yale, a pair of opponents the Tigers

Remember When?

Navy's 59-52 victory over Princeton Saturday was the first the midshipmen have recorded over a Tiger basketball team here in a long time.

Long enough, in fact, so that the triumph came not in Jadwin Gym, nor even in Dillon Gym. On January 18, 1947, Navy defeated Princeton, 46-45, in Baker Rink.

The old University Gym had burned three years earlier, hockey had been shelved during the war and the Naval Training School then operating on the Princeton campus had procured the flooring essential to convert Baker Rink into a gymnasium. Princeton teams in basketball, wrestling and fencing competed there, until Dillon Gym could be completed in time for the 1947-48 season. When hockey was resumed, the Tigers skated outdoors if there was ice and played the few games on their schedule away until they managed to reclaim the Rink.

have dominated for years, will be in Jadwin Gym Friday and Saturday, with the Bruins on tap first. (For the story on Tuesday's game with Penn, see page 39.)

With the schedule about two-thirds over, Coach Pete Carril is still shuffling his starting lineup in search of as many as three players who can give him a consistent performance. In the shudderingly-bad 59-52 loss Saturday to Navy, only Captain Ted Manakas played 40 minutes. Andy Rimol would have had he not gotten into foul trouble, but the other three positions were in a constant state of flux. And — it must be added — with very little to show for the shuffling process: seven players produced a grand total of just 20 points.

Never a contender in Ivy basketball since joining the league some two decades ago, Brown appears to be on the way up. Its freshmen last year were a fine 18-and-2, and three of them this season are pacing the Bruins with scoring in double figures.

Best man is 6-5 Phil Brown, who is the team leader in virtually every department, averaging 14 points and 12 rebounds a game. Classmates Vaughn Clarke and Eddie Morris are contributing 12 and 11, respectively. Brown has beaten Cornell, Columbia and Yale at Providence, and lost to the Elis on the road.

Yale is an unimpressive 6-9 on the season but 3-1 in the league — clearly indicative of the low calibre of overall team strength among the Ivies this season. The Blue has split its series with Brown and beaten Cornell and Columbia, all of its victories coming at home.

Scott Ferguson, averaging 11 points a game, is the Blue's big man at 6-9. The high scorer, producing 18 points on average, is guard Tim Kearns. Captain Mike Baskauskas, Jim Cartmell and Gary Franks round out the starting lineup, with all but Cartmell in double figures to give the Elis good balance.

Navy: Dogged, Disciplined. Of the 14 teams it had played before coming to Jadwin Saturday, Navy had been beaten by seven and had won from only one of any distinction — a 66-58 triumph over Temple at Annapolis. The Middies were supposed to be a stepping stone on which the Tigers could rest briefly while recovering from a 12-day exam break and looking forward to resumption of the Ivy chase.

The visitors refused to conform to the pattern set for them. Despite a lack of unusually capable personnel, they executed their assignments to far greater perfection than the uninspired Tigers, leading vir-tuously the entire evening and always remaining in control throughout the decisive second half.

tuously the entire evening and always remaining in control throughout the decisive second half.

For the second game in a row, Manakas had trouble with his outside shooting, hitting only 5 for 11 and contributing a mere two baskets during the final 20 minutes. Rimol provided 18 points (8 for 18 from the floor), while Jim Sullivan and Joe Vavricka took 20 shots between them to make three baskets apiece.

This is the Tigers' problem — no player is performing well enough from one game to another to earn a starting berth, and when Manakas is shackled by occasional double-teaming, no one else has the ability to pull out a tight game. Not since the days of Bill Bradley has Princeton had a team with only one player averaging better than ten points a game.

With the Tigers trailing by two (31-29) after a desultory first half which saw both teams shoot 43%, the game went to the visitors because they shot a sizzling 61% in the final period to 30% for the Orange and Black. Princeton was no worse off than another two-point deficit (47-45) with just over seven to go but each time it threatened to pull ahead, a defensive lapse gave the middies a key basket, and they widened their margin as the clock ran out.

COACHES SQUARE OFF

When Yale Six Plays Here. Saturday's Yale - Princeton hockey game in Baker Rink will be marked by the first meeting of Bill Quackenbush and Paul Lufkin in opposing roles. Lufkin served under Quackenbush as the Princeton freshman coach until he was named head man at New Haven last summer.

In his first year in charge of the Elis, Lufkin is having considerably more success than his former associate. The Blue is 7-5-1 overall and has beaten Dartmouth and Penn in Ivy action. The Elis have also tied the Quakers and lost to Brown.

The Tigers, meanwhile, went into the Penn game at Philadelphia Tuesday night with a 2-11 record, still seeking their first triumph over both an Ivy foe and a Division I team. They now have Co-Captain Walt Snickenberger back, after a term's absence because of ineligibility, but even his presence on the line that Mark Stuckey centers is unlikely to solve the pressing problems that confront the disorganized Princetonians.

RPI Chastis to 9-2 Triumph. Held even for the first 17 minutes Saturday, Rensselaer Polytech's all-Canadian squad break the game wide open with a sexual second period. Of the visitors' nine goals, a majority were set by faulty Princeton passing that put forward a sure on Phil Robinson, the highly capable all-ways defender. Robinson, who was able to block 50 of the 52 shots taken at him.

Trautner, no more than 10 at the end of the first round, he Orms and Back yielded four more over a five minute stretch early in second period. Princeton scored first when Sackenberg and Smiley combined to set up sophomore Steve Weiner, and later in the same round, Mike Bascom, on their sophomore, got the luxury's other goal.

I was 72 at the end of two and the visitors added another goal in the final period. Although not among the top six or eight teams in the ECAC rankings, they dominated the Tigers with ease.

Indicative of Princeton's brand of play were the four penalties its skaters picked up in the first nine minutes. Not only were they unable to attack while short-handed but RPI's almost constant advantage during this time put extreme pressure on Robinson.

Two of the calls for infractions went against wing Brian McIntosh, one for elbowing and another 11 seconds after his first sentence was up — for charging. A vulgar language to referee Ed Panzak on the second call brought a ten minute misconduct, and when McIntosh proceeded to blow his back in the penalty box Panzak tossed him out of the game. About 1,000 young hockey fans, oared in from various areas for the game, got an object lesson in watching the worst temper tantrum staged in Baker Rink in a quarter century.

McIntosh's statistics show 33 penalty minutes against a single assist in 13 games. The 33 minutes do not include the time he has spent off the ice after being thrown out once for fighting, once for misconduct. There is some question whether he is doing more for Princeton hockey than against it.

LAWRENCEVILLE NEXT
For Princeton Day Quilnet. One of the most important games in the Princeton Day basketball schedule will be played this Friday, when the Panthers meet Lawrenceville at home. Tip off for the evening game is set for 8 p.m.

The game will be the first played between the two schools on the varsity level, and points up the shifting fortunes in sports. Just a few years ago, the Blue and White didn't belong on the same court with Lawrenceville, but rarely lost to it in hockey.

Now, PDS has an excellent chance of winning this first meeting in basketball, but has not triumphed on the ice since 1971 against the Red and Blacks.

A victory over the Larries will not come without a struggle. They have beaten both Ilun and Rutgers Prep this season among the prep school powers. However, they lost to Peddle by 12 earlier in the season.

This Wednesday, 11:30 p.m., there were scheduled to go after their 11th win (they have lost three) against Pennington away. Next Wednesday, February 7, they will meet MacArthur Military at home in a make-up of the game originally scheduled at MacArthur January 19. The contest was postponed and moved to PDS when MacArthur's gym burned down.

The glory of an upset over a powerful Peddle team, ranked second in the state, was not to be last Friday, as the Blue and White faltered in the third period, and ended up losing 62-53.

Mark Ellsworth scored eight points the last two putting his career total at 1,000. In the first four minutes of the Peddle game as PDS easily beat Peddle's press. The half ended with the score 32-30 Peddle, and the visitors opened the lead to the winning nine point late in the second half.

"Peddle did a great defensive job," said PDS Coach Alvin Taback, but we played a great game against an outstanding team." At one point, Taback had three freshmen, a sophomore and one senior on the court against Peddle's first five of three post grads and two seniors.

Ellsworth was PDS' high scorer for the night with 15, followed by Frank Konstantinowicz with 13 and Ron Webster with 10.

Wardlaw's small scrappy team gave PDS fits in the first half of Wednesday's game and the Panther's sloppy half boxed it. Halftime found PDS trailing 32-27 but they put together a great second half with good defense and good hustle to even a 10 point margin and won 62-52. "By half time we were over our mid season blues and the loss to Hun," said Taback.

CONTE'S IS 3.0
In Basketball League After defeating Princeton Basketball Association last week, Conte's Bar remained the only undefeated team in the Princeton Recreation Department's A-dull basketball league with a 5.0 mark.

In other games, Ivy Inn offered its first loss to No Names, and then defeated the Vikings. The Post Office topped Kingston Wine & Liquor which was playing without Bruce Coburn, the league's leading scorer. Perks won two games — its first victories of the season.

Following Conte's in the standings are Ivy Inn and Post Office, both 4-1; Kingston Wine & Liquor and No Names, both 3-2; Perks and Princeton.

GRAND OPENING SET

For Princeton Savings Branch. A grand opening celebration has been planned to start this Saturday, at the new Lawrenceville office of Princeton Savings and Loan Association, 2649 Main Street.

A wide selection of gifts will be available to all who open a savings account in categories of $100 or more, $1,000 or more, and $5,000 or more, including blankets, electric can openers, corningware sets and blenders.

The Association will also hold a drawing for an RCA AccuColor 17-inch portable television along with 2 Zenith FM/AM digital clock radios and eight other prizes. Visitors will receive souvenirs as well.

The office will be open from 9 to 3 Saturday with the free gift and prize offer running through March 2. According to William H. Boozar, Jr., president, regular hours at the new office will be from 9 to 4 Monday through Friday, plus Friday evenings from 5 to 7.

The new facility is the result of the Savings Institution's purchasing the assets of the Lawrenceville Savings and Loan Association, which had operated on a part time basis.

"This will be a moment of great magnitude to us at Princeton Savings," Mr. Boozar said, "since it will be our first branch location. To the Lawrenceville Savings customers it will mean the new convenience of a full time, insured Savings and Loan Association. To our customers in the area, it will mean the additional convenience of a Princeton Savings office, closer to home or work."

STOCK SPLIT PLANNED

For United Jersey Bank. United Jersey Banks will split its stock on a two-for-one basis at the close of business February 13.

UJB stockholders voted at a special meeting to increase the authorized shares of the company to 10 million from 4 million shares to institute the split. The stock split will increase the outstanding shares of the $1.7 billion state-wide bank holding company to 5,310,690 from 2,655,345.

Some 2,145,485 shares were voted in favor of the increase, with 10,202 opposed. A total of 61.5% of the outstanding shares was voted.

This will be the first stock split since the company began operations in October, 1970.

According to Edward A. Jester, Jr., chairman of United Jersey Banks, the split will "expand the marketability of UJB stock so the small investor will be able to afford 'round lots' of UJB stock that were beyond his reach before." UJB stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange. It closed on Friday at $57 1/4.

United Jersey Banks is the largest banking organization in New Jersey, with 15 member banks and two bank related subsidiaries. First National Bank here is a member.

EARNINGS UP 29%

For 6 Months at Mathematica. Mathematica, Inc. achieved record revenues and earnings for the six month period ended December 31, it was announced by Dr. Tibor Fabian, president of the technical consulting firm.

Net income was $269,200, equal to 38 cents per common and common equivalent share, for the six months. This compares with net income of $209,400, equal to 30 cents per share for the year ago period.

Revenue was $1,879,900, compared to $1,005,000 a year ago.

These figures represent a 29% increase in net income and a 22% increase in revenues from the year earlier figures, which have been restated to include Educational Coordination, Inc., an educational consulting firm acquired by Mathematica in December 1972.

"We are on target and progressing nicely in all operations," Dr. Fabian noted. "The third quarter is off to a good start and our present backlog is good."

EARNINGS INCREASE

At Princeton American. Primary net operating earnings of Princeton American Bancorp were $5,011,000 or $1.95 per share for 1972 versus $4,973,000 or $1.92 per share pro forma for 1971. Fourth quarter primary net operating earnings were $5.56 per share in 1972 compared to $5.45 per share pro forma in 1971.

Primary net income after securities gains was $5,024,000 or $1.96 per share for 1972 versus $5,101,000 or $2 per share pro forma for 1971.

JOAN DOIG & JUDY GETIS EXAMINE SCHOOL ISSUES*

TEACHER EXCELLENCE — A strong school system depends on our having excellent teachers — and our school system has many of them. To maintain quality, all of our teachers should be regularly evaluated and when appropriate given assistance in increasing effectiveness. We must continue to offer them programs which will contribute to their professional growth. A good teacher is one who is continually learning as well as teaching.

FINANCIAL RESTRAINT — Decreasing enrollment, loss of tuition and the threatened loss of state revenues will create serious financial problems for Princeton in the next few years. It is important to realize that there is no easy answer to reducing our costs. What is needed is a proper ordering of our educational priorities, so that when program economies are necessary we will have a clear understanding of how this may affect the quality of education that we are providing.

EVALUATION — All of our school programs need to be regularly evaluated in order to insure that they are fulfilling their stated purposes and that our children are receiving proper grounding in the basic skills. However, we must not be so concerned with measuring and quantifying that we reduce the teacher's ability to encourage such difficult-to-measure qualities as self-confidence and independence.

CONSTRUCTIVE DIALOGUE — The School Board must serve as an effective interpreter of school-community issues. A good precedent was set in the October racial conflict when Board members met with students and parents in an effort to find the sources of grievances. Similarly, in the process of reaching complex decisions, Board members should meet and exchange ideas and information with community groups — a good example of this is the discussions which were held in recent weeks on the matter of redistricting.

DISCIPLINE — Schools must provide a proper atmosphere for learning; disruptive behavior cannot be condoned. Our schools have been trying to build into the school situation more opportunities for students to learn self-discipline and to assume responsibility for their own behavior. When students fail to follow the rules, they must be disciplined. However, it impugns the integrity of our teachers and staff to believe that there is a "double standard" of justice in our schools. Moreover, neither good discipline nor the education of our children would be served by setting aside in a separate place all those who have been designated as "tough discipline problems."

By Peterson's Guides, Peter and Susan's Guides, Princeton based educational communications consultant and publisher of institutional and educational reference works, has announced publication and distribution of the seventh edition of The Annual Guides to Graduate and Undergraduate Study, comprising more than 4,000 pages.

Sponsored by more than 600 participating colleges and universities, these reference sources represent the most comprehensive single source of information about higher education currently available.

Peter W. Hogener, founder and president of the company reports that more colleges and universities than ever before have turned to participation in this unique service as a means of disseminating information to interested students and academicians.

These eight volumes of the Guides bring together a wealth of educational data covering all three levels of higher education, two-year, four-year and graduate schools.

Through the Guides the reader can learn what general areas of study and research opportunities are available at each educational institution; conversely, which institutions offer academic work in each of 171 fields and, precisely, what the participating colleges and universities themselves feel are their most important characteristics and what they offer to students.

More than thirty thousand copies of the reference sources have been distributed with out charge to deans, professors, and selected central advisory offices at universities all over the country. The books are also on file in public libraries, book stores, government agencies, and foundations.

(An Open Letter to Princeton Voters)

TO: All Princeton Borough Voters
FROM: Hawley Waterman

On February 6th, the voters of Princeton will go to the polls to elect several new members of the Princeton Regional School Board. We all recognize the importance of excellence in education.

Recent and current events in the Princeton School System have convinced me we need to examine our system. I believe that common sense dictates:

1. The school board must direct the path of our schools
2. Discipline and respect must be stressed
3. Vandalism and drugs must be controlled
4. Programs must be evaluated
5. Students must:
 - a. Master basic skills
 - b. Be assigned and expected to complete more homework
 - c. Experience teacher-directed learning

I ask for your VOTE on February 6th played a big role in Hun's win over George School. Lynch with 14 points was second in scoring behind Tran who had 16. Bystrycki added 12 and Clark 10.

After a 19-9 third period advantage which gave Hun a 55-41 margin, the home team staged a rally, which just fell short, outscoring Hun 21-10 in the final eight minutes. The Cougars' Dave Mason scored five of his seven points in the last period to lead the comeback.

SIXTH IN A ROW

PHS Over St. Anthony's, 73-55. Playing with the ease and confidence of a team that knows it can win, the Princeton High School basketball team used a balanced attack to roll over St. Anthony's Tuesday evening, 73-55. The victory for the area's top-ranked Little Tigers (13-4) was their sixth straight and second this season over the Iron Mikes.

As in its first encounter with St. Anthony's, PHS pulled to a commanding lead only this time it didn't almost let it slip away. Coach Marvin Trotman's squad poured in 38 points in the second half—more than enough to offset a meaningless 26-17 margin by the home team in the final eight minutes against the PHS reserves.

Bobby King of PHS led all scorers with 16 points, while teammates Tony Bailey, Gil Spencer and Larry Miller each added 14 apiece. Spencer also threw a blanket over the Iron Mikes' high scorer, Charlie Didun, limiting him to one basket from the floor. Didun had been averaging 16 points a game.

St. Anthony's was a fine 21 for 23 from the foul line. PHS held a two-to-one advantage in baskets, 35 to 17.

FIFTH STRAIGHT WIN

For N. Y. Squash Team. The New York A team captured the Howe Cup for the fifth straight year last week when it defeated teams from Boston, 3-2, and Philadelphia, 4-1, at the New Haven Lawn Club. Among the members of the New York team are Mrs. Jerome P. Webster, Mrs. Pieter Fisher and Mrs. W. Pepper Constable—all of Princeton.

The Howe Cup is named in honor of Mrs. Constable, her twin sister, Mrs. Robert White of Rochester, N.Y. and their mother, Mrs. William Howe of Nantucket, Mass.

A Princeton University team became the first recipient of a new intercollegiate cup presented by Mrs. Howe when it defeated opponents from Dartmouth, Vassar, Yale, Trinity and the University of Pennsylvania. The team is coached by Mrs. Constable.

PHS TRACK TEAM EDGED

By Ewing, 39-38. A first and second in the high jump, the final event, enabled Ewing last week to edge the Princeton High School winter track team, 39-38. The Little Tigers had led 37-31 going into the event. Mike Campbell of PHS set a new school record in the 410 which he won with a clicking of 57.0. Lou Drury tossed the shot, 47.9 to establish a winter track record. Drury also captured the 60-yard dash with a

Tiger Quintet Upsets Penn, Ties for Ivy Lead

Princeton's totally unpredictable basketball team got a wholly unexpected second shot at the Ivy League title Tuesday night when it upset Pennsylvania at the Palestra, 64 to 54. If form holds—and it very rarely does among the Ancient Eight—both teams should win their remaining ten games and then meet in a playoff during the week of March 4.

The Quakers had virtually everything going for them when the two quintets met in a rematch this week—ranging from a convincing victory over the Orange and Black in Jadwin Gym three weeks ago to the wretched performance that Princeton had given Saturday in losing to Navy. But in line with long-standing tradition but it will often rise from the ashes to record a stunning upset, the Tiger quintet not only led most of the game but ran away from the heavily favored Quakers in the final minute.

One of the leading teams in the nation defensively, Penn's Ivy champions were beaten at their own game, clinging to a precarious five-point margin with 6:31 to go. Coach Pete Carril's often uncoordinated quintet held the taller, faster home team to just four points for the duration of the action.

time of 6.9 and finished third in the high jump.

Other winners for PHS were Pete Nichols in the two mile (10:38.9) and Bill Roderick in the 880 (2:15.4).

SKATERS DO IT, TOO

Tigers Upset Penn, 5-4. A little over two hours after Princeton's basketball team conquered Penn in the Palestra, the Tiger hockey team won its first Ivy game of the season when it edged the Quakers in overtime at Philadelphia. Wayne Bezan scored the tie-breaking goal just short of the six-minute mark.

The Orange and Black enjoyed a 1-0 lead after 20 minutes despite being outshot, 15-4, in the first round. Its margin mounted to a surprising 3-0 before the home team began to find the range.

Ahead by 4-2 midway through the third round, Princeton gave up a pair of goals in the last three minutes of regulation time to force the extra session. Penn's last score came when it pulled its goalie, despite the fact that it was a man short.

Midway through the overtime period, the Red and Blue had a clean break on goalie Phil Robinson but he blocked the shot. The Tigers then swept down the ice, Bezan scoring on a fine shot from six feet out. The other Princeton goals went to sophomore Corky Powers (two), Clay Kyle and Co-Captain Walt Snickenberger.

SWIMMING MEDALS WON

By Mrs. Bolster, Pendergrass, Mrs. Joseph Bolster and Jim Pendergrass, master swimmers affiliated with the Princeton Aquatic Association, brought home three gold medals between them Saturday from the masters' events at the Metcalf Memorial Swim Meet at the Orange YMCA.

Mrs. Bolster, swimming in the 40-44 year age group, won the 100 yard freestyle, in a time of 1:27.1, her best time to date, and the 100 breaststroke in 1:41.7. Pendergrass, in the 50-54 group, took first place in the 100 yard butterfly in a time of 1:27.1.

Master swimmers work out at least three times a week and sometimes daily, at Dillon Pool, with the Princeton Aquatic Association. Other swimmers in the club range in age from 8 years old up to the oldest of the masters.

Meets for master swimmers are appearing more and more frequently on the AAU schedule and often regular AAU meets like the Metcalf Memorial Meet last week-end, include

Captain Ted Manakas

For two and a half minutes with the Tigers leading, 55-59, neither team scored. Then the Princeton lead was extended to seven as junior Joe Vavricka, a non-starter who hit for 10 points in the low scoring contest, broke away for an uncontested layup.

Penn sophomore R. H. Harger converted a pair of free throws with 3:14 left, and after Princeton came down court and missed, Craig Littlepage narrowed the gap to 57-54 with a tip-in. Fascinatingly, that proved to be the Quakers' last points, despite home-court advantage and the support of a roaring crowd of close to 6,000. Vavricka came up with a key steal, Bill Kapler was fouled and converted both free throws on 1 and 1.

That raised the Princeton advantage to 59-54 with 35 seconds left, and when the losers were charged first with an offensive foul and then an intentional foul, the Tigers gleefully rubbed in the defeat. In the last 35 seconds, they scored six more points.

Chief architect of triumph was Captain Ted Manakas, whose 26 points were within an eye of equaling half of Penn's total. Held to a career low of 1 against Temple, he could do no better than 14 in the loss at Navy. On the tough Palestra court, he was a superlative 11 for 15, including four out of five for 80 percent in the decisive second half.

The loss was the first for Penn in Ivy competition on its own court since 1967, and only the second defeat the Quakers have suffered in the play in four years. Both setbacks were engineered by Princeton.

GIRLS TEAM UNDEFEATED

In Basketball at PHS. The girls basketball team is outperforming the boys at Princeton High School.

Led by their captain, Denise Craig, who is averaging 28 points a game, the girls have won all seven games they have played. Others on the starting five are Gracie McEwen, Kathy Shillaber, Joanne Stratton and Jeanne Stiefel.

Currently ranked 12th in the state, the team will participate in the state tournament which starts in February.

COTTAGE CLUB TOPPLED

By Cap and Gawn. Cap and Gawn seniors impressively defeated first place Cottage Club in Dilon League action last Saturday morning. It was the second meeting of the two clubs.

Cap was soundly defeated in their first encounter 35-19, but Saturday's contest proved that Cottage was no match for Cap's first break as Cap roared its third straight 60 point game in winning, 60-11. Again Tom Moore and Tony Lewis led Cap with their speed and agility. Tony scored 22 points while Tom hit for 14.

Cap center Greg Jaecel also contributed a string of fort by controlling the boards for the break and scoring 12 points. Terry McEwen scored 10 for Cottage.

IN OUR OPINION

The West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School District Proposed Budget for 1973 is UNREALISTIC EXTRAVAGANT EXCESSIVE

Example: $8,000 for low service for physical education classes.

Such an allocation—double the annual income of many American families—does not distinguish between necessities and frills.

Future budgets will only get bigger.

Profligate spending does not assure quality education.

We can't afford this budget. We will vote NO on Feb. 6.

You, too, can help stop excessive expenditures.

News Of The CHURCHES

TILE DESIGNS ON VIEW
From Medieval Churches, Church tile designs from the collection of Dick Swann of Cherry Valley Road are on exhibit at First Presbyterian Church during February.

Mr. Swann, an Englishman who came to this country in 1967, is widely known as a bicyclist the champion of Lybia and winner of Egypt's one-hour record, who rode in the five-day race in Florence and in the hill competition near Beirut. He's to be found, naturally, at Kopp's Cycle Shop.

Not so well known is that he authored a book on medieval tiles, illustrated with his own drawings. He saw workmen repairing a floor in the English church where he was a verger. The 11th and 12th Century designs of the tiles they were discarding interested him and he persuaded the rector to collect instead of dispose of them.

"I made some photos and drawings, and read a little book and began to get people interested in them," he says. A commercial artist, he saw the Medieval tiles as "forerunners of posters. Lots of people in those days couldn't read, but they'd get the story right away. They knew the symbols of heraldry and that the fleur-de-lis was the Virgin's flower."

Mr. Swann traced designs or sometimes had to finish out, frechand the pattern of tile fragments. Then he painted

Did you know that $1 will support a purchase of $1,000-000 or more? A deed requires a certain consideration from the purchaser in order to be legal. The law calls a "consideration" any sum, large or small. Thus, you can bind yourself to pay for a piece of real estate worth hundreds of thousands with a mere $1 dollar bill. Of course, you have still bound yourself to pay the rest of the bill. To quote leading authorities: "The slightest consideration is sufficient to support the most onerous obligation."

Bind your real estate dealings with the expert advice of those at WALTER B. HOWE INC., 1 Palmer Sq. Tel. 924-0095. Open 9-9, Sat. 9-5, Sun. 1-5. Call our Pennington location 737-3301 or our W. Windsor location 799-1100 for your convenience. Est. 1885.

HELPFUL HINT:

The party selling property is known in a deed as the "grantor", and the party purchasing is known as the "grantee."

NURSERY SCHOOL applications for next year now available from Trinity All Saints School. Apply before February 15th. Mrs. Hugh Bever, Registrar. 921-2107. 1-25-73

PREVIEW SHOWING!

Not just a home, but a hometown...

What makes Timber Glen at Allentown a kind of hometown, N.J.S.1? Not just the historic heritage of Allentown. It's really a community that's touched with pure Americana and rich with a colonial heritage that's evident in the many historical buildings and sites that dot the area. Not just the fact that it was in Allentown that Lord Cornwallis planned his army's march preceding the famous battle at that Molly Pitcher, of the battle of Monmouth, was born here. Yes, Allentown is history. But that was the Allentown of yesterday. And Allentown is today. A peaceful town that can boast 267 years without a known violent crime in its traditional confines. A magnificent wooded setting that features the fine advantages for family fun and recreation... beautiful lakes for swimming, boating or fishing, golf courses, theaters, breathtakingly beautiful horseback riding trails and other diversions are nearby.

And Allentown is a friendly small town offering the conveniences of a modern community. For shopping, there are a number of centers close by on Rt. 1 and Rt. 33, as well as small local shops. The Allentown school system is regarded as the finest in the area. And for the commuter, it's a lovely beautiful town.
